ILLINOIS STATE

NORMAL UNIVERSITY

NORMAL, ILLINOIS

JUNE, 1946

When Chaucer sketched the quiet, threadbare Oxford scholar among the Pilgrims to Canterbury, he concluded the portrait with the familiar line:

"And gladly wolde he lerne and gladly teche." These words were chosen as the motto for Illinois State Normal University when the official seal was designed.

Notwithstanding the trend of many teachers' colleges to prepare for other professions than teaching and the recent strenuous interruption of war in which our campus, like many others, lent her facilities for the training of service men, old Normal has held steadfastly to the education of prospective teachers.

In this INDEX, therefore, the editorial staff has endeavored to bring together by picture and story the year's record of the life at Normal of those who would "gladly teche."

The building with its symbolic tower has been a hall of learning since before the days of the Civil War. No matter how much we grumbled about eight o'clocks on the third floor, or how many appointments were missed because Old Main's tower clock was wrong, or how we explored labyrinths to find rooms tucked away in odd corners, Old Main remains a fond memory.

Old Main, the oldest state normal school building still in use in the United States, the building that has seen generations of students go "up north" and "down south," was emptied of classes on February 25.

Under the provisions of the Civil Administrative Code the Illinois State Normal University, with the four other Illinois teachers' colleges, is governed by the Teachers College Board, consisting of eleven members. Nine of these members are appointed by the governor for terms of six years, and usually a resident of each of the teachers' college towns is a member. The other two are ex-officio members. A sub-committee of three members for each teachers' college works with the president of the school.

"And Gladly Teach"

From the campus of Illinois State Normal University over sixty thousand persons have gone forth whose mission and profession was to "gladly teach." The generous and significant contributions of this large group to education throughout the forty-eight states of this country and in many of the nations of the world are such as to cause any present or former student or faculty member to be very proud of his own ISNU.

No college or university in the world has been credited with more outstanding contributions to the field of teacher education than has Illinois State Normal University. It is quite natural, therefore, that this oldest state-supported institution of higher education in Illinois and the tenth oldest state teachers college in the United States should elect to remain a teachers college devoted exclusively to the education of teachers.

Since there are no divided interests on the campus and because one does not find the program of teacher education diluted by attempts to include the work of other types of colleges and universities, it may be expected that it will always be "heads up" with present and former students and alumni of ISNU as they proudly put into action the words on the university seal,— "and gladly teach."

President R. W. Fairchild, chairman of the Administrative Council.

Dr. C. A. DeYoung, Dean of the University; Mrs. Lottie Boundy, his assistant, and Dr. Arthur H. Larsen, Assistant Dean, discuss the program of classes.

The Admininistrative Council acts in an advisory capacity to the President of the University, Dr. R. W. Fairchild.

The group is composed of ten ex-officio members: Dr. C. A. DeYoung, Dean of the University, the "Doctor Anthony" of ISNU; Miss Elsie Brenneman, Registrar, the senior's credit counter; Dr. Anna L. Keaton, Dean of Women, whose jolly smile lifts co-ed morale; Mr. R. H. Linkins, Dean of Men, the male lead in Senior Take-off Assembly; Dr. J. W. Carrington, Director of the Training Schools, chanting "Yes, we have no vacancies"; Prof. Floyd T. Goodier, Director of Integration, who knows the G.I. Bill from A to Z; Dr. Arthur H. Larsen, Assistant Dean, a brand new but capable addition to the Council this year;

Dr. L. A. Holmes, Administrative Assistant to the President.

tor of Fell Hall, and social science teacher, too; and the President.

Prior to 1938 when the first regular meetings were held, the President met with the personnel in small, informal meetings. Administrative matters needing the consideration of the University as a whole rather than one person's opinion are discussed, such as the problem of student employment on campus, plans for enrollment, the housing of war veterans, post-war physical education program, and evaluation of the summer session.

Thus, many points of view are presented, a more comprehensive evaluation is attained, and as a result, the major policies approved are more far-reaching.

Efficiency Plus

"Grads" from ISNU may secure that first teaching position through Dr. John W. Carrington, director of the Bureau of Appointments. Mrs. Lorene Meeker is the Assistant director of the Bureau, and Miss Sarah Fox is secretary.

Four years ago these same students were writing to Miss Elsie Brenneman, registrar, for those all-important "Permits." Miss Pauline Elgin is secretary to the registrar, Miss Ferne Melrose is recorder, and Mrs. Irene Smith is her assistant.

Standing in line to check out books from the Textbook Library under the direction of Dr. Russell Glasener is just one of the trials of registration.

If you had a cold or sore throat, it was treated by Mrs. Gyneth Weber, University Nurse, and Mrs. Anna Staker, secretary. This year the Health Service provided chest X-rays for tuberculosis for all students and faculty.

Employed students are eager visitors of the Business Office to get "state checks." Preston Ensign has charge of the faculty checks. Others in this office are Miss Eleanor Crone, assistant, and Mrs. Ruth Clem, University accountant.

Mrs. Gertrude Hall, in the Alumni Office, is Director of Publicity and Director of Alumni Relations. Mrs. Wilhelmina S. Rich is the secretary to the Director of Publicity, and Miss Edna McCoppin is the Alumni Secretary. Miss Jean Carey is student secretary in this office. Records are kept in this office of all students graduating from ISNU.

It takes a number of other workers to keep everything running smoothly on the campus. These include

Formulating Our Policy

At the monthly meetings of the University Senate, the President reports items of interest and general information to the senate body; discusses problems which have been referred from the Administrative Council for further consideration, and presents matters directly concerning the several department heads.

Every area of the University is represented by ex-officio members: administrative officers, directors of divisions, department heads, the head librarian, director of Fell Hall, director of publicity, and director of extension. The Senate meets the first Tuesday of each month to determine school policies.

The presentation of matters such as salary schedules, the retirement system, nurses' training program, and the proposed calendar of University activities for the school year at those meetings economizes the time spent on their discussion and evaluation during the regular monthly faculty meetings.

They Set Up The Guide Posts

A quick flashback of their four years spent at ISNU will reveal to graduating seniors a host of vivid impressions gleaned from their associations with the black-robed professors walking beside them.

ISNU students are proud of their school's faculty because it is a distinguished group with many impressive degrees and intellectual talents, as evidenced by writing textbooks and magazine articles. For extramural exercise the profs give lectures or book reviews and attend educational conferences.

Informal duties include chaperoning dances, timing at athletic events, sponsoring clubs, presiding at teas, and MCing shows. Such extracurricular activities give students a chance to become friends with that stern-looking personage of the "8 o'clock" who surveys the back row in their direction.

The campus co-eds soon discover the frivolous side of these many-faceted characters when they see them trip across the stage in colored tights and croon ballads before the footlights in the annual stunt show. They learn that some faculty members have children and pets, hobbies and peeves, and weaknesses for hot fudge sundaes and brightly colored ties.

To prevent that near-sighted, hollow-chested look, the profs here at ISNU recommend horseback riding, antique refinishing, squirrel hunting, horticulture, golf, and the training of pets.

The student who values true friendship and sympathetic guidance will find both in the teacher who, at dusk, is seen striding down the street with a whistle on his lips, happy in the thought that another Friday has come or that another term is over.

Democracy Begins

The "smooth sailing" of the University extra-curricular program is due in a large degree, to the work of the various boards. The boards are composed of students—chosen by the student body as a whole and appointed by the Student Council—and faculty members.

Entertainment, Concert, and Lecture Board

To bring to the campus the finest available talent in all fields is the responsibility of the Entertainment, Concert, and Lecture Board. Dean R. H. Linkins, faculty chairman of the board, with the help of both faculty and student board members, plans the program for the evenings of entertainment for the following year.

The Movie Board, of which Prof. C. L. Cross is faculty sponsor, is included as a part of this large board and brings to the campus each week the latest thing in motion picture entertainment.

The Assembly Board, another division of the Entertainment Board, plans the weekly assemblies for the year. Faculty chairman is Dr. C. E. Decker.

Athletic Board

Scheduling the football, basketball, and baseball games, track meets, tennis and golf tournaments and other athletic events is all included in the work of the Athletic Board. Dr. L. W. Miller is faculty chairman.

Apportionment Board

The problem of distributing the student activity fees among all-school organizations faces the members of

With The Boards

the Apportionment Board. Their busiest moments are at the beginning of each semester. Faculty chairman this year is Mr. J. W. Green.

Theater Board

Selecting and buying the necessary equipment for play productions is the primary job of the Theater Board. Chairmen of various divisions of dramatic productions comprise the membership of the board. Miss Ruth Yates is faculty chairman.

Homecoming Board

The members of the Homecoming Board are responsible for seeing that the Homecoming activities go off like clock work. Dr. R. U. Gooding is faculty chairman.

Forensic Board

Directing speech activities on campus and honoring the year's outstanding speech students come in the work of the Forensic Board of which Mr. G. B. Barber is faculty chairman.

Student Health Board

A healthier ISNU is the main objective of the Student Health Board under the leadership of Dr. Karl Bleyl.

Social Life and Organizations Board

Questions of the where and when of school parties and the weekly calendar of events make up the work of this board. Dean Linkins is faculty chairman.

War Literature Board

Members of the War Literature Board place all important literature concerning World War II in Milner Library. Some of their responsibilities are to preserve speeches of prominent leaders, and to secure all available materials from alumni who are in service for their country. Serving on the board this year as faculty chairman was Miss Eleanor Welch.

Governmental Relations and Americanism Board

The purpose of the Governmental Relations and Americanism Board is to arrange any special patriotic assemblies, to provide flags when needed, and also to work with such groups as the American Legion. Mr. Edwin Struck was the faculty chairman and Georgia Grossart was the student chairman who served on the board this year.

War Funds Board

Faculty and students on the War Funds Board this year were in charge of all the drives and funds collected for war purposes. Many will well remember the "clink" of those dimes, nickles, and quarters as they were dropped into milk bottles during the assemblies. Mr. Lancaster served as the faculty chairman.

War Records Board

Members of the War Records Board keep themselves busy keeping a complete record of all information, correspondence, and records of alumni, faculty members, and employees of the University now in service. This information is filed in the alumni office. Mrs. Gertrude Hall was the faculty chairman and Vivian King was the student chairman this past year.

We Now Return You To—

"Everybody ready! ISNU is on the air"—with Theodore Johnson, Lois Ann Smith, and Robert Smith serving as student announcers.

Illinois State Normal University returned this fall to the air for the eleventh year with programs for everybody.

Monday evening brought "Our High School Guests," a program presented by students from various high schools in Central Illinois. On Tuesday afternoons during the fall semester Metcalf Elementary School pupils told how they worked and played in "School Days." Also on Tuesday afternoon was "Music Time" arranged by Miss Emma R. Knudson. These programs included solo as well as ensemble numbers, both vocal and instrumental, in addition to selected recordings from the ISNU music library.

Matters pertaining to healthful living of interest to children as well as adults were discussed by Dr. Karl Bleyl on the "How's Your Health" program. Young listeners willing to follow health rules could become members of the Junior Health Club.

Discussions of current topics by small groups of University faculty members made up the series for the "University Forum" on Wednesday afternoons. Dr. Howard I. Fielding served as the forum moderator.

The "Reading Hour" during the fall semester brought to its radio audience such variations as dramatizations, poetry reading, and selections of the world's best literature, under the direction of Miss Ruth V. Yates. Following this, the second semester was the "Make A Long Story Short" program, including two all-school radio dramatic productions as well as programs from University High students arranged by G. Bradford Barber.

Friday afternoon with "Campus News," was another regular ISNU broadcast. This program, prepared by the publicity department, summarized the University news of the week and previewed coming events. This broadcast, with particular interest for alumni, was presented in dialogue by student announcers.

These programs were arranged by a faculty committee headed by Dr. Helen E. Marshall.

Announcers Lois Ann Smith, Theodore Johnson, and Robert Smith.

LEARNING AND TEACHING

A group of high school students in advanced biology receive instruction in the principles of bacteriology from their student teacher—Third from right.

"How does it taste?" queries the student teacher of these high school students in home economics.

Critic and student teachers work with students in a journalism class where the school paper is made up.

Student teachers in the elementary curriculum gain practical teaching experience in the Metcalf Training School.

Science students and student nurses work on the dissection of a cat.

University High students gain experience in speaking under the supervision of a critic and a student teacher.

Being able to design and make one's own clothes is quite an asset as these students realize.

Student teacher in physical education guides the play of Metcalf children on the jungle gym under the supervision of a critic teacher.

In the Carnegie Room at Milner Library we study music appreciation by listening to recordings of the world's best music.
Circle—Mrs. Malmberg serves as hostess in the Carnegie Room and will help you to choose and play the records you want to hear.

A miniature business district complete with transportation is set up by elementary students.

Back For More

The regular school term at ISNU this year has seen the largest enrollment of graduate students to date, 60 in all, 32 full-time. Since graduate study was offered for the first time during the summer session of 1944, 94 graduates have come to continue their professional preparation leading to the degree of Master of Science in Education.

Graduate study at Normal is a planned procedure with the guidance of Dr. C. A. DeYoung, Dean of the Graduate School, the Graduate Council, and 38 competent faculty members.

Each student has an Advisory Committee which assists him with his thesis or report on a research project. So from a huddle of these "powerful forces" at work, great things can be expected from this infant graduate school.

 Mary W. Cretcher, Normal, Eng.
 Francis L. Griffith, Taylorville, H. & P. E.
 E. Wayne Gross, Petersburg, Sec. Schl. Prin. Curr.
 Mary K. McCulloch, Pontiac, Geog.
 Lower—Peter J. Magro, Cicero, Soc. Sci.
 Walter C. Schuette, Edwardsville, Soc. Sci.
 Frank C. Traeger, Bloomington, Soc. Sci.
 Gladys J. Wibking, Charleston, Eng.

Normal University's good name was a help to graduates on the many trips they took while gathering material for their theses. Visiting all five state teachers' colleges in Illinois, wading through the volumes of historical information found at the State Historical Library, visiting county seats and newspaper publishers were some of the activities of graduates who are working on their master's theses.

The ideas for research problems have arisen out of their individual teaching experiences, out of some situation which they will probably face as a member of a teaching staff in some school, or perhaps from some course they have taken at the University.

As a result of their research, they learned the procedure of gathering information, organizing it, and writing in scholarly form. As one graduate expressed it, "We certainly appreciate the work that goes into a book after writing a small one ourselves."

Making use of the technique of taking notes on small 4x6 cards, Frank Traeger writes the rough draft of his thesis, "A Study of Lower Illinois River Valley from 1818 to 1870."

Who's Who Among Seniors

Middle Right—Three women of the year—leaders of campus organizations.

Now It Can Be Told

The class of '46 now looks backward over four fruitful years of study, work, and fun at ISNU. It's hard to believe that four years have passed since these future teachers for the first time walked up the steps of Old Main and into Capen. This was before the years of the Navy, and the frosh girls had already established themselves as residents of Fell Hall.

The ordeal of registration over, they got their textbooks and immediately looked up those class assignments—first impressions are usually lasting.

Another year, and these freshmen were sophomores, much to their joy, but also their sorrow. History of Civilization with its weekly 75 pages of outside reading, and psychology are only two of the courses that faced these once "green freshmen." Time, once lost, can never be regained, but many were the times these sophs wished they had had some of that time to sleep that they had idled away the year before.

Ah! Juniors at last! Now in their third year, these upperclassmen studied the color pattern of the falling autumn leaves, participated in snowball battles during the winter, and strolled down the moon-lit paths of the campus on those warm spring nights.

It doesn't seem possible for that final year to have arrived so soon. Philosophy of Education, term papers, student teaching responsibilities—including the application of all the previously learned educational principles—go toward fulfilling these capable seniors' aim: "and gladly teche."

The senior class activities were under the able leadership of their president, Shirley Kelley; vice-president, Lois Terpening; secretary, Irene Chervavy; and Ruthelma Benjamin, treasurer.

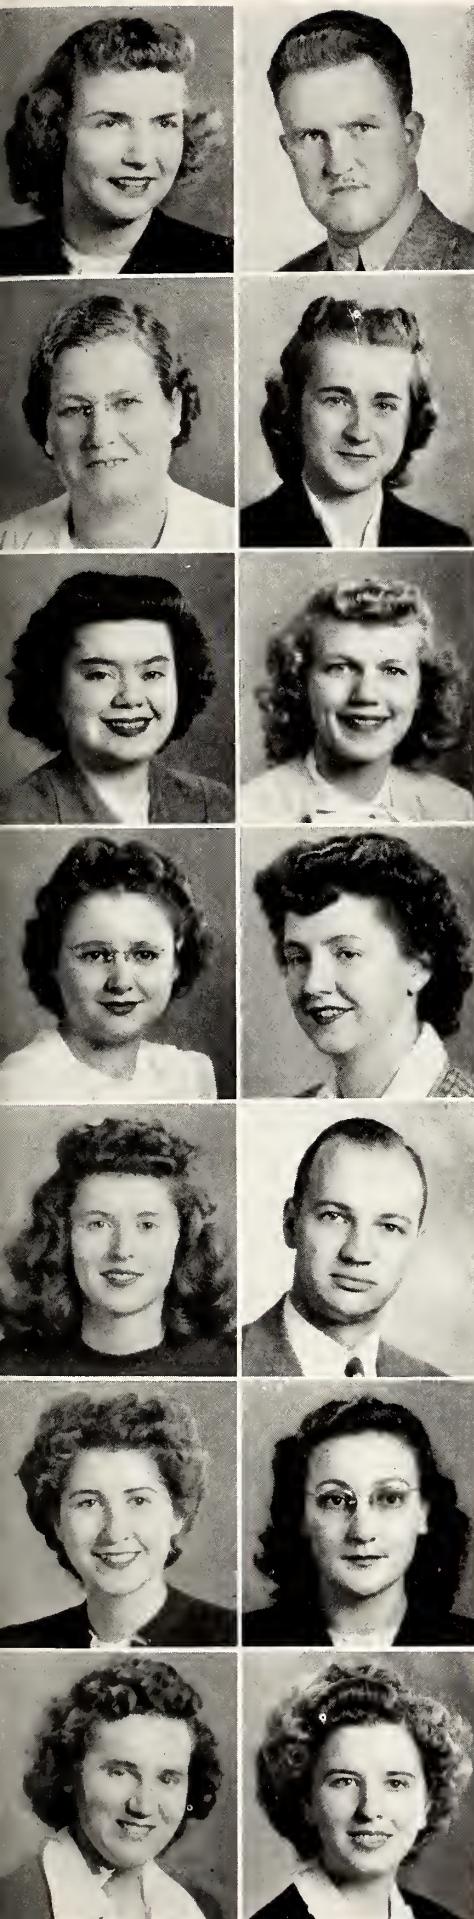

The advisory board meetings always proved to be gala affairs ending in cokes at the Campus Inn at the expense of the class sponsor, Mr. Howard Ivens. The advisory board is noted for its bright ideas and its ability to put over these ideas. Such efficiency can be attributed to the board members: Onalee Coplan, Anita Dorsey, Dorothy Fisherkeller, Ray Hansen, Carolyn Harris, Grace Kinsey, Delores McMillin, Kenneth Miller, Phyllis Patterson, Marian Rouse, Margaret Anne Stipp, Alex Takacs, Barbara Torreyson, Jane Whitehead, and Marjorie Wolf.

This last year has been full of events for these busy seniors. Plans for an elaborate Homecoming required time and energy not spent in teaching. Many of these seniors were snapped in rather undignified positions as they put up decorations and made those inevitable last-minute plans for their class party.

The destination for senior skip-day is still unknown, but the one most important factor—plenty of food—is definitely assured.

Faculty take-off is the seniors' last presentation on the stage in Capen before that "sheep skin" is awarded. Four years of careful observation of what characterizes Normal's classroom profs, kindly but humorous, results in this hilarious assembly.

Plans for Commencement—choosing, ordering and distributing announcements, planning programs, choosing speakers—and Baccalaureate wind up the seniors' activities. The teaching profession welcomes new recruits as these graduates pass onward and the class of '47 comes into seniority.

Three Down, One to Go!

With a hop, skip, and a jump the '43 frosh finally landed in the junior class, armed to the pompadour with "Observation" notes, historical data on everything from the caveman to the modern continental republic, theories on physiological drives and motivations of learning, and criteria of good speech habits.

Privileged is the junior who may delve into the "200" courses and be eligible for initiation into the honorary sororities and fraternities on campus. As an upper classman he's ready for American "Pub Ed," US History, and a few more hours of his favored elective.

But all work and no play will make even a Junior Jack or Jill a dead beat, and so President Mary Alice Callery summoned the class together under the sponsorship and friendly guidance of Professor G. Bradford Barber to plan a few dances.

On December 1 the juniors transformed Cook Hall into a hayloft and invited all of the students of ISNU to come dressed in checkered shirts, patched jeans, and huge neckerchiefs. The "January Jump," a closed dance featuring Lee Homebrook's orchestra, helped to usher in the new year.

First matinee all-school dance of the season was held on March 15. Nylons, coveted by all and accessible to few, were given away as door prizes at this "Shamrock Shuffle."

The date on the calendar most discussed and worried about was that of the traditional Junior-Senior Prom. This dance was sponsored in May by the juniors in honor of the departing seniors. Co-chairmen Ginny Olson and Gloria Appenbrink steered the committees' crews skillfully through the maze of preparations.

Other persons responsible for the success of the year's program, besides Prexy "Mac" and Professor Barber, were Betsy Eversole, who acted as vice-president, and Marjorie Horn, who balanced the books and recorded the minutes of each meeting. The class also elected Violet Rosenthal, Ginny Olson, and Vivian King as representatives to the Student Council. Vivian was elected secretary-treasurer of the council.

The advisory board was composed of Russ Benway, Lucile Carlon, Gloria Appenbrink, Darlene Miller, Althea Alexander, Roberta Sanderson, Joan Naseef, Bob Jones, Wayne Seigworth, Ruth Brenneman, Beth Graff, Everett Hamilton, and Mary E. Evers.

Other class members whose names were often heard in the halls or on the greensward were Mary E. McCormick, Vidette news editor and active in dramatics; Loraine Bailey, familiar figure behind the rostrum and before the footlights; Bob Jones, football captain; and Joyce Skinner and "Mac" Callery of the Homecoming Queen's court.

With yet another year to go, the class of '47 looks forward to more mature living, struggles with Philosophy of Education, and "trial-and-error" methods in student teaching before donning those mortarboards in June, 1947.

Top, right—All the best bands tonight at the dance, as sophomore students turn the platters for a school party.

Their Second Year

The class of 1948 entered the sophomore year with high hopes for the future. After a long summer vacation, they were looking forward to renewing the friendships made in their first year at college as well as having the opportunity themselves to "poke fun" at the new "greenhorns."

Now, after their first taste of college studies they were to have a try at such courses as "History of Civ" with pages and pages of notes to be handed in each week, "Gen Psych," and "Fundamentals of Speech." Finally, they were going to begin some of those courses in their own special fields, the ones they have really looked forward to.

Sophs in Social Events

With Homecoming came the sophs' chance to supervise the leaf-raking antics by the freshmen for the bonfire. And the sophs weren't to be left out when it came to the Homecoming dance either. They were pulling for their own Norma Stearns Ruyle, a home ec major from Bloomington, as she was elected to the queen's court.

Sophomores celebrated their event of the year on April 13. Yes, it was the Sophomore Cotillion. The theme of this year's cotillion was "In a Flower Garden" with McCormick Gym attractively decorated to carry out this theme. Nola Seidel, a business education major from Tipton, Kansas, reigned as queen, while the "sophs" elected Murray Osborn, a music major from Chenoa as their favorite for king of the cotillion.

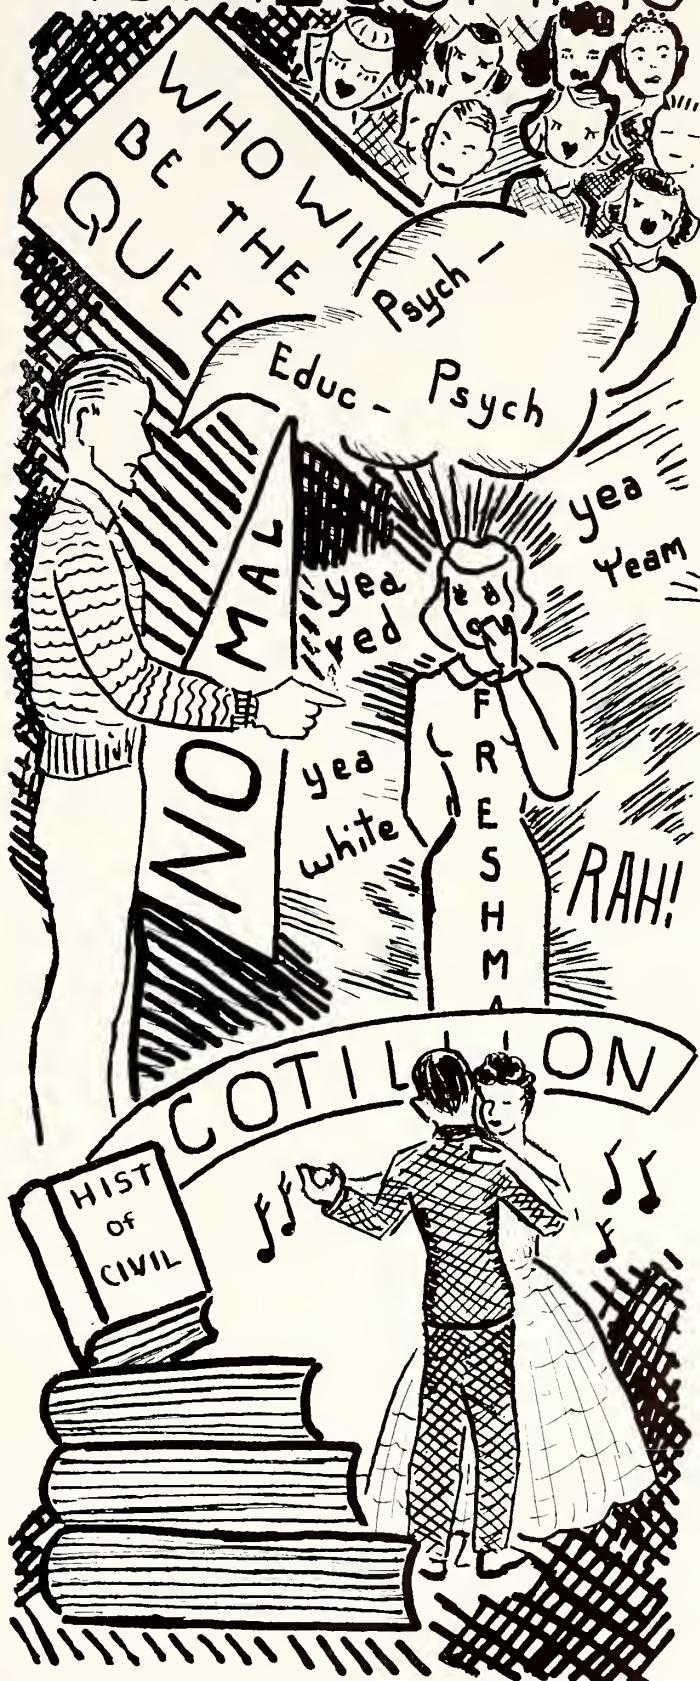

Cotillion Committees Named

The sophomores were all for making this year's cotillion the best ever. Chairmen of the committees who helped to make the dance a success were: music and floor show, Martha Lou Alverson; decorations, Georgia Grossart; refreshments, Janice Armstrong; invitations and tickets, Joan Hemken; publicity, Helen Walka; king-queen, Virginia Rubino; cleanup, Wendell Wright.

The year ended with the sophomores eagerly looking forward to becoming upperclassmen even though they had been a little dubious about getting through those semester exams again.

Upper right—"Be my Valentine!" Freshman Valentine Party.

Lower right—Not an automatic voting machine but it serves adequately for Freshmen casting their ballots for the first all-school election at ISNU.

O Brave New World!

The increase in the size of the entering freshman class indicates that youth once more is thinking in educational terms. In October, 1945, the registrar's office counted more than 400 beginners at ISNU. The campus life of freshmen begins in September with a week of counselling, meetings, assemblies, group meetings, conferences, tests, dances, welcome fanfares, tips on togs, words of advice and wisdom, and a host of information of all kinds to file away in the brain covered with the dust of three months' summer vacation.

Recovering from Freshman Week sufficiently to limp around to classes, they shared the duties of Homecoming preparation by raking leaves, when they actually became "oriented" to the campus.

Roderic Abbott offered his lusty lungs to the cheerleading squad, and twirling to the music of the All-Girl Marching Band were Rosemary Ortmann and June Dickson.

Models Jean Lupien, Nancy Omick, Rose Tabor, and Marilyn Meinke gave a co-ed's eye-view of the latest styles on campus at the Women's League style show. Old Mother Nature with her corn husks, pumpkins, and golden leaves, along with the traditional witch on her broomstick, black cats, and jack-o-lanterns provided the atmosphere for the Hallowe'en Ghost reception at Fell Hall where Freshies bobbed for apples.

Not to be outdone by upper classmen, the Freshmen Phils and Wrights carried away half of the prizes awarded: Wanda Rose Jones won the piano solo event by playing Chopin's "Revolutionary Etude"; in the vocal solo contest, Eula Mae Bess whose musical talent was displayed in singing "The Lord Gave Me a Song" and "Italian Street Song"; and winning debaters were Clemence Vantrepotte, freshman, and her colleague, Ann Allen.

Busy with the class of 1949 were the officers: Lauren Frederick, president; John Bennett, vice-president; Betty Stephenson, secretary; and Beverly Belcaster, treasurer. The sponsor of the group was Dr. Claude M. Dillinger.

No Filibusters Here

Shall we call it the most talked-of organization—our Student Council? All of us have heard about it, but so few really know about it. Here at last is your chance to learn all, so gather around.

The Council was kept busy, individually and collectively, with various problems and duties. Some Council responsibilities are sponsoring all-school elections, keeping a peaceful and homelike atmosphere in the Student Lounge, and checking of attendance at assemblies, besides serving as representatives on numerous boards.

Council members work efficiently and almost continually. Among their various activities is the planning of mass meetings to stir up school spirit. The Council also acts as a clearing house for problems between the administration and students.

Who is in this group? Members of the Council include, Marian Rouse, president; Jane Whitehead, Alice Jane Nold, Vivian King, Rosemary Browne, Barbara Wood, Virginia Olson, Martha Lou Alverson, Joe Konitzki, Glenn Gilbertson, Robert Lindsey, Violet Rosenthal, and Eldon Maxwell. Other members are Nancy Schrecengost, Sally Surratt, Barbara Brand, Connie Goudreau, and Georgia Grossart. Margaret Anne Stipp and Isabelle Simpson represent The Vidette and The Index on the Council.

Now It's Done

Every Thursday afternoon from 4 to 6, plus every other spare moment during the week finds Editor-in-chief Isabelle Simpson and a crew of ambitious students working feverishly to meet each new deadline for the 1945-46 Index. These are the members of the class in School and College Annual.

Isabelle finds that even burning the midnight fluorescent is hardly sufficient for such things as selecting pictures, helping to decide on cover designs, and planning the "dummy."

To the business editor goes the task of taking care of the correspondence with printers and engravers, as well as signing contracts. Edna McCoppin, business manager, with her assistant, Elizabeth Graff, and Miss Alta Day, faculty business adviser, can tell you that this requires efficiency.

Making sample cover designs, making and rejecting and remaking sketches, striving for harmony and balance in layout—these are a few of the tasks of Dillye Foster, editor of the art staff and her helpers, Arlene Waters, Lydia Anderson, and Guinevere Long, with the suggestions and aid of Mrs. Mary Parker, faculty art adviser.

You've probably seen Gladys Chapman with flash bulbs in hand in almost every possible corner of the campus. With her camera Gladys might be found standing on tables to get difficult shots or just arranging group pictures in an attempt to keep students from posing.

Those people you see wearing worried looks and a pencil behind their ear as they madly type copy in order to meet a deadline are members of the literary staff. This staff has Allegra Gulon as its editor and Miss Esther Vinson as adviser.

Figuring out the number of words per line, counting picas, and checking and rechecking for correct information are only the beginning.

The other members of this staff includes Anita Dorsey, Iris McKinney, Beverly Pyle, Cherry Jackson, and Kenneth Miller.

And now after two semesters of fun and labor the staff brings to you the 1946 Index.

Copy! Copy! Who's Got The Copy?

Pounding typewriters with ringing bells. Blue pencil gals diligently reading the miles and miles of galley proof. Ad solicitors racking their brains for something "special" to put in their ads this week. Such things as these gave the Vidette office that atmosphere of hustle-bustle when a copy deadline was to be met or when the staff counted in the headlines and cut the story to fit the space.

The persons who wore their legs down running about the campus to gather news were members of the journalism class, struggling to get the "Who? What? Why? When? Where? and How?" of campus events to fill the gaping columns of the dummy so that the editors wouldn't have to dream up "filler."

Gathering the copy was only part of the job of turning out the weekly. Proof was checked and rechecked for errors by the proofreaders.

Literary make-up was done by all the editors. These were efficient and experienced "Margie" Stipp, "chief", Eloise Holzhauer, managing editor, Bob Lindsey, sports, and "Mickey" McCormick, news editor.

Advertising make-up was cared for by Isabelle Simpson, manager of that division.

Other college editors like to see how different schools handle a paper, and so Videttes are sent to them as well as to regular subscribers. It was the job of circulation manager Barbara Wood to mail these every week.

The woman on the force with a mind for business was Mary Brucker. Working with her to keep the Vidette out of the "Red" was Jo Murphy, bookkeeper.

Standing behind the hardworking staff members to give counsel and to take the blame for mistakes was the instructor in journalism and adviser for the staff, Miss Esther Vinson.

Where is My Date Book?

What a wonderful affair! So indeed are all, or any of the teas, dances, or banquets sponsored by Women's League.

Organized at ISNU in 1925, Women's League has been devoted to creating a spirit of unity among the college women, co-operating with the school administration in its efforts to make and keep high social and ethical standards and encouraging the women of the school to make their citizenship operative.

The WL calendar this year included the annual Homecoming luncheon, Saturday night "Nicky" dances, and the Women's Day tea.

Are jeans appropriate to wear to school? Should I wear my slacks rolled above or below the knee? Is it proper on campus to wear dirty saddle oxfords? These and other questions concerning what the well dressed college girl should wear on and off campus were answered at the fall style show sponsored by Women's League.

"Yuletide Meditations" in Capen during the noon hour relieved the strain of that trying week before the Christmas holidays. The stage decorated with icicle-laden trees, the chimes from the tower of Old Main, and the resounding strains of carols brought true spiritual beauty and peace to those present.

"Snowman's Swirl" was the theme of Women's League's winter formal. A five-foot snowman was the center of attraction and, being stuffed, he didn't melt.

To help the freshman girls adjust to college life WL has as one of its branches Honor Council. Members of HC and others who are interested hold monthly meetings devoted to discussion on the various problems confronting the incoming student. Their main service is as campus sisters or counselors.

House Presidents' Board and Central Board serve as legislative bodies of WL as well as representative groups of campus women.

Officers for the year were Marjorie Johnson, president; Marilyn Theis, vice-president; Carolyn Harris, secretary; and Mary Donnell, treasurer.

Living Here Was Fun

After two years of service as the "ship" of the V-12 naval unit, Fell Hall was once again merely a dormitory for girls.

Among the postwar changes as evidenced in the Hall were the changes in personnel, terminology, and furniture. Where sailors once trod the "top deck" and made up their "sacks" or double-deck beds, girls on third floor now made up their new single beds (which almost didn't arrive) with gay spreads and quilts.

Yes, Navy occupation was over and the reconverted hall with its newly tiled floors and remodeled furniture was the scene of parties, spreads, and formals planned by its residents of the feminine gender. Boys escort their girls to the front door (instead of vice versa), or serenade them in the parlor, and then leave in true "Normal" fashion.

The Hall's prestige did not suffer with the coming of the girls for its Honor Residents brought many laurels with them and ably assumed the duties at the switchboard. Its freshies won the Class A prize in the Homecoming house decoration contest; and it acquired a new director, Miss Helen Flynn, who is also assistant dean of women.

In September, Grace Kinsey, an HR, was chosen president and Marvelle Zilly secretary-treasurer of Fell Hall for the ensuing year. The ten other Honor Residents were Esther Morris, Jane Price Tepperman, Margaret Breen, Marilyn Theis, Mary Donnell, Marjorie Johnson, Sarah Neil, Rosemary Browne, Janet Blundell, and Meryl Singley.

Victory-- To Be or Not To be

"Here's to dear old Phil going on . . . Here's to the victory, it's as certain as can be." These strains from the song of Philadelphia Literary Society show the spirit of the organization as seen through the year's program. The oldest organization on campus, Philadelphia is still living up to its standards. One of the highlights of the year was the formation of the Phil Choir under the direction of Mr. Neal Glenn, sponsor.

Phil Hall was in an uproar the night of the nominal party. Some of the members presented a one-act play, with prologue and epilogue, depicting a mountaineer family that was sending its only son to ISNU. The hall rang with laughter when Junior returned from college to find his parents victims of a youth-restoring tonic; Paw had taken an overdose and had returned to infancy.

Initiation was an hilarious event this year. Costumes of all types, convicts, umbrellas, raincoats, apple trees, sailor suits, slacks, and shorts were displayed as each initiate portrayed some popular song, either by dress or by actions. Even "Hitler" turned up that night.

The Phil members were in a "dither" as plans for the annual Phil-Wright contest were being made. Ruthelma Benjamin, president, did all possible to retain the secrecy of this year's contestants; Anita Dorsey, secretary, continued to worry about who was a member of what committee, while Dorothy Fisherkeller, treasurer, kept the clerks busy checking up with the Club's finances.

At least once a year the Phils and Wrights sit side by side at their annual joint banquet. At that time all hostilities are laid aside and the program is presented by members of both societies. The freshmen are still commenting on the success of the affair and making plans for next year's banquet.

Wieners, buns, and coffee were a part of the menu at the Phils' annual spring picnic. As the last sparks of the fire were extinguished the strains of the old Phil song could be heard in the distance . . . "going on, going on, going on."

Wright Means Right

Twice each month members of Wrightonian Literary Society gather for a program of music, reading, dramatics, or just plain business.

Membership of Wrightonia reached a new high when at the beginning of the year, 15 new members participated in the formal initiation ceremonies. The initiates were more than thrilled to see their signatures in the permanent record book along with those of members of Wrightonia dating as far back as the beginning of this, one of the oldest organizations on campus.

There have been numerous invitations to "come up and visit Wright Hall" since the decorators practically changed the entire face of the old meeting place. Freshly painted walls and new furniture are only a couple of the added attractions.

It was quite a disappointment, however, when Old Main was declared unsafe and the Wrights had to move to North Hall.

The Wrights and Phils may sit side by side in class and may even be roommates, but where the contest between the two literary societies is concerned, it's a fight to the finish.

Wrightonia contestants were Dorothy Balkin and Lois Smith, debate; Mary Hunt, extemporaneous speech; Wanda Jones, piano; Elizabeth Scott, vocal; and Dolores O'Banion, oration. The freshmen really took things in hand this year and vowed that regardless of what may happen this year, Wrightonia is determined to win the trophy in '47.

The Wrights were congenial enough, however, at one of their spring meetings when they invited over their rivals, the Phils, to a party in the Student Lounge. At the door, the president, Marian Dean, pinned on the back of each guest an ad from a magazine. The fun began with guessing what commercial product was being advertised on one's back. There was represented everything from tooth paste to automobiles.

This year the Wrights surpassed the former attendance records at their spring banquet. Charlotte Bennett, vice-president; Gladys Smith, secretary; and Paloma Lucero, treasurer, expressed the opinion that the banquet was one of the most successful they had attended. Their motto still holds—"Wright Means Right."

When Good Fellows Get Together

University Club, all-school men's organization, made a good showing this year. The first event of the year was the stag party in September. Coaches spoke, and movies were shown. Early in the second semester a smoker was held at Smith Hall.

Among school dances, U Club sponsored several "nickies," a big dance in December, and the "Hood Bawl." The Christmas Service was an impressive program in Capen auditorium, which was garbed in festive holiday attire of evergreen. The Rev. E. E. Atherton of Bloomington was the speaker at this service.

Big event of the second semester was Parents' Weekend. On Friday evening, May 3, U Club sponsored the Stunt Show, and on Sunday afternoon, together with Women's League, U Club presented the Parents' Day Service.

Committee chairmen this year were as follows: Wendell Wright, social; Don Pinder, program; La Verne Wenzelman, Christmas Service; August Lorenzini, Stunt Show; Kenneth Miller, Parents' Day Service; Ramon Hanson, freshman handbook.

Edwin Shepherdson headed University Club as president with August Lorenzini as vice-president, James Zimmerman as secretary, and Archie Simmons as treasurer. Dean R. H. Linkins served as sponsor of the organization.

For Men Only

Once again after two years Smith Hall was open as a men's residence. The traditionally remembered, mirrored reception hall, the warm informal library, and the living rooms remained almost unchanged; but there were many new features apparent to returning veterans and new students alike. Additional shower facilities, new furniture, improved over-all lighting, new plaster and paint, enlarged rooms, and an enlarged dining room increased the capacity and facilities for the men.

President for the year was August Lorenzini; vice-president for the first semester was Richard Brummitt, and for the second semester Glenn Bradshaw; Howard Bess was secretary during the first semester, while Russell Broughton served in that office during the second semester; Richard Murphy was treasurer throughout the year.

Among the familiar persons to be seen at the Hall were the housemother, Mrs. Willetta Ream, known as "Mother Ream"; Mrs. Grace Russell, the cook; and Dean R. H. Linkins, the sponsor.

Activities of the Hall included an intramural basketball team with Bob Fortney as captain, a Christmas party, which was the first social function of the year, and several house parties. In the spring the men held a wiener roast and an informal dance.

Following the Parents' Day Service, a reception was held at Smith Hall as it always was before the war. Those who attended the reception enjoyed the formal garden behind the house with its circular fish pond. All the fellows were glad to show off their residence hall to the many visitors.

Although Smith Hall got off to a slow start this year, the men plan big parties for next year.

The Music Goes

Below—Music in the rough—as University Orchestra rehearses under the direction of Mr. Glenn.

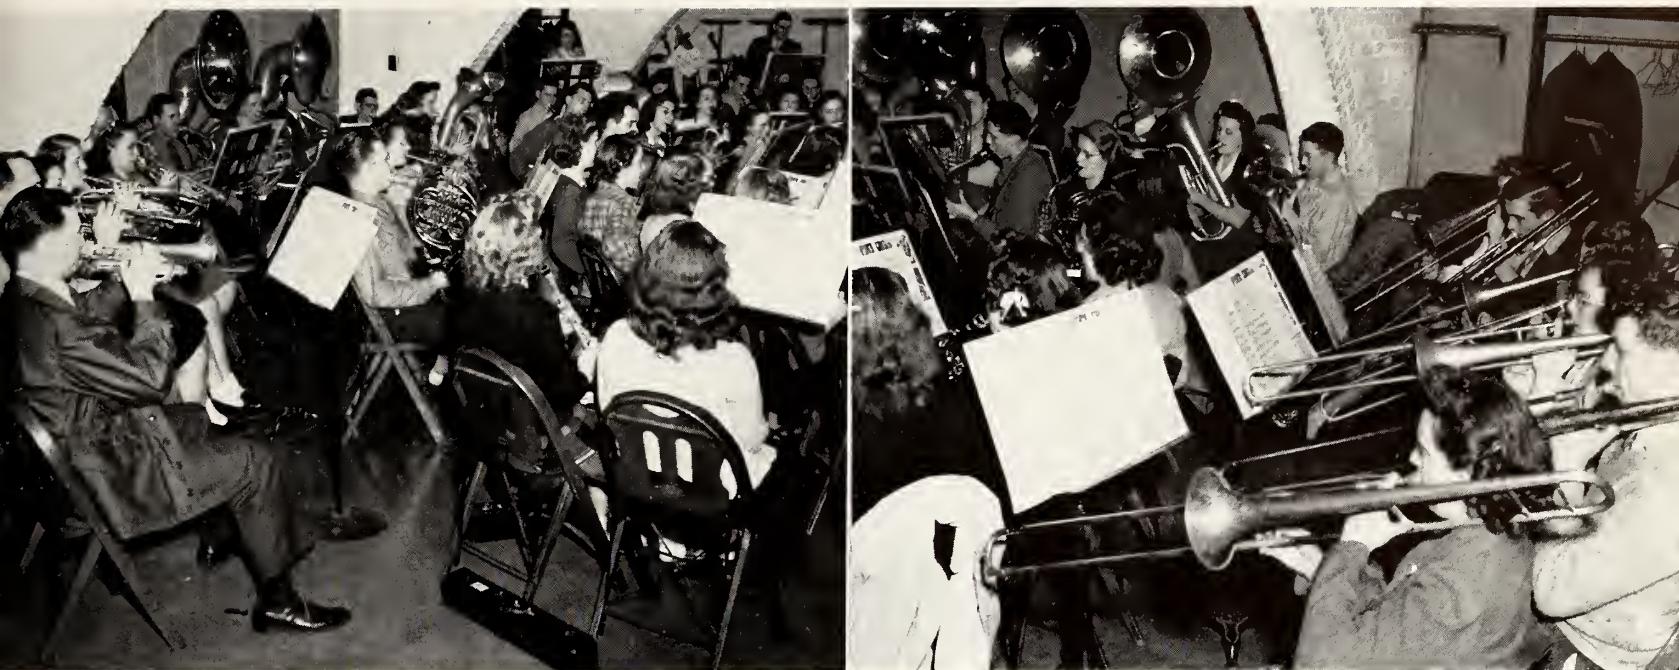

Struggling for its rightful place in the music world of ISNU, the University Concert Orchestra has had a year of ups and downs.

Under the direction of Mr. Neal E. Glenn, assistant professor of music, the students have faithfully attended rehearsals when they knew that there was not the slightest chance of a concert. In the meantime, the stress of rehearsals has been on acquaintance with teaching materials for the high schools.

Like other similar groups the war hit the orchestra hard. There were not enough experienced violinists to make a good string section, and the enrollment of members was very low in comparison with previous years.

Sections of the orchestra overshadowed other sections but the music lovers closed their ears to blue notes and strange sounds to keep in practice for the day that the orchestra can again be tops in music production, and to help the orchestra to keep in existence until that time.

Left—Could it be that these trumpeteers are potential Harry James or perhaps Charlie Spivaks? Right—With a strong right arm and a lot of hot air, these trombonists slide the music out.

Round and Round

Monday at 4 p.m. and Wednesday at 7 p.m. for the past eight years has meant only one thing to members of the University Concert Band—rehearsal! Most of these rehearsal periods are spent in sight reading new music. Some of them are given over to student directors, seniors in music, who have had courses in conducting and enjoy the experience.

The concert band has approximately 80 members, which Director Wayne F. Sherrard says is a very small band, but he hopes it will soon reach its pre-war high of 150 members. The band is growing, and with the return of men from service the musicianship is making definite improvement.

The concerts this year included a trip to Bloomington High School, and an all-day trip to Eureka, Peoria, Pekin, and Minier, where they played for a combined P.T.A. meeting of a number of surrounding towns. The band plays a wide variety of music—classic, standard, and popular.

There are no regular officers of the band, but under the direction of Mr. Sherrard, music instructor, it is a unified organization. First chairs are held by Ellwood Wheeler, Truman Hudson and John Hubbard, cornetists; Clark Waldmier, Bill Ellison, and Bill Johnson, clarinetists. Tuba first chairs are: Ralph Houghton, Jack Dempster, and Walter Brashear. Jim Baker is the first chair trombonist, and Edward Daniel is the first chair French horn player.

The Pep Band, which played at the football and the basketball games, and the Circus Band, which played at the summer and the winter circuses, are not the same as the concert band, but the personnel is drawn from the concert band membership.

The Pep Band of about 40 players has played spirited "pep" music to help pour oomph in the teams and in the student body. The favorite piece of music, perhaps, is the "Red Bird Song," and the service songs, "Anchors Aweigh," "Marines' Hymn," could run a close second, judging from the way they are sung and hummed when the Pep Band plays them.

The Circus Band, a slightly smaller group than the Pep Band, well remembered for its "Gay 90" songs—"Daisy Bell," "The Man on the Flying Trapeze," "Waltz Me Around Again, Willie," and for the newer song "Take Me Out to the Ball Game."

The Marching Bands are entirely separate from the Concert Band. The Girls' Marching Band and the Men's Marching Band, which will be resumed again next year, are both under the direction of Mr. Sherrard.

And It Comes

The University Women's Chorus, the only all-girl vocal group on campus, is the organization which has given to the school the Girls' Octette and the Girls' Trio.

The Women's Chorus is under the direction of Miss Margaret Westhoff, instructor in music, whose frequent ballet lessons at rehearsals enlivens the singers with the spirit of the songs. Arriving at 6:45 each Monday and Thursday evening with her portfolio of music is Norma Hewitt, a freshman music major, who is piano accompanist. A chorus of 75 voices blend harmoniously in sacred hymns as "We Praise Thee, O God," Irish ballads—"Little Bit of Heaven," and romantic classics such as "The Night is Young."

The group has contributed musically to programs throughout the year, in community activities, and on singing tours, as well as on campus. Amusing administrators at the annual "Round-up" with "Oh, Dear, What Can the Matter Be" was just a small part of their accomplishments. Robed in blue, the chorus sang "Adeste Fidelis" in the impressive processional and recessional of the University Club Christmas Service in Capen Auditorium.

Also, at Christmas time, they, along with other music students, sang the great "Hallelujah Chorus" and other selections from Handel's "Messiah."

Fresh out of semester exams, Miss Westhoff's melodiers presented an assembly program for the University High students and faculty. Along in April, with spring well on the way, they boarded buses for a singing tour to Streator, Fairbury, Dwight, and other neighboring towns, all in one long day.

The lovely soprano voice of Eula Mae Bess, sophomore from Fairbury, provided the solos for the group this year on various occasions—at the Business and Professional Women's Club, on WJBC "Music Time," at the Edwards Medal Contest, and in the out-of-town programs. Also in the girls' trio, Eula Mae, with Wiladene Hewitt, and Norma Hewitt, the Freshman music majors from Chenoa, supplied variety with "Morning Song," "Nursery Land Sketches," and "He Met Her on the Stair." Meryl Singley, senior music major from Minier, accompanied the girls.

Officers for the organization of 1945-46 were Elaine Anderson, president; June Mitchell, secretary-treasurer; and Mary Parsons and Mary Hunt, librarians.

Out Here!"

"The Creation," Carmicheal's "Deep River," "Water Boy," "Gloria Patri," "Volga Boatman," and "Wade in De Water" are all in the repertoire of the Men's Glee Club, the only men's choral group on the ISNU campus.

Under the direction of Dr. Harlan W. Peithman, associate professor of music, they have brought back to the campus some of the male "zip" we missed during the last four years of war. Not only the basses, tenors, and baritones of former years but also many musical veterans harmonize in the group of twenty.

Eight o'clock in the morning was the time of one of the programs which the Glee Club gave, proving that they are "stout-hearted men." Besides singing at the University High School assembly, and between acts at the Homecoming play, the fellows have sung at the University assembly and combined with the University Women's Chorus at Christmas to present well-known parts from Handel's "Messiah."

The Men's Glee Club sang at the Dwight Veterans' Hospital on the evening of March 18, after they had toured to Lexington, Fairbury, and Dwight during the day, singing at high school assemblies and organization meetings. They also presented a program to the American Legion in Normal.

"Vive L' Amour" was one of the songs which this year's glee club will be remembered for, along with the three songs which they dedicated to the armed services.

Joe Konitzki, a freshman from Elgin, is not only a star on the ISNU basketball court, but also a talented singer of such favorites as "One Alone" and "Stardust" which he sang for assemblies, rallies, and programs both on and off campus.

Jim Baker, another freshman with a full deep voice, sang for assembly the old familiar ballads like "Deep River" and "I Love You."

Along with individual talent, the male close harmony quartet sprang from the Men's Glee Club. The boys, Walt Brashear, Ralph Houghton, Bob Smith, and Jim Baker sang for assemblies, programs, and just for fun during the past year.

Walter Brashear, president of the organization, with the librarians, Robert Smith and Clarence Randall, budget the money to buy the music which the men of the Glee Club will like to sing and their audiences will enjoy hearing.

Other officers of the glee club are Kenneth Miller, vice president; Lee Grant Stokely, secretary and treasurer; and Elmo Gentes, publicity manager. Such a combination of the best in music, harmonious voices, and capable leadership nears perfection.

Marching Along Together

At the sound of "Hup-2-3-4" we glance around to find—not men—but women. The All-Girl Marching Band on the march, wearing their uniforms of black skirts, red ties, and caps, and white blouses and sox.

The All-Girl Marching Band is believed to be unique on college campuses, and under the direction of Prof. Wayne F. Sherrard, has completed its second year of existence.

During football halves this fall, the marching band entertained the crowd. This year they formed "ISNU", the Marching "N", and letters of visiting teams. Their special formation was the story of "Little Red Riding Hood" which was dramatized at the Homecoming football game.

Sarah Neil, senior in music from Springfield, was president of the organization, and other officers were Lorene Maxwell, vice-president; Elizabeth Scott, secretary; and Nita Dawson, treasurer.

Drum major was Meryl Singly, music senior, with Joyce Broers and Nita Dawson as drum sergeants. Twirlers for the band were Jane Hileman, Jane Dixon, and Rosemary Ortman.

They Make Music Wherever They Go

Lowell Mason members, music majors and minors, whose tastes range from Bach to boogie-woogie, and whose talents include everything from the art of do-re-mi-ing in close harmony to executing a trill on a clarinet, enjoyed a full year of activities and fun.

During "hell week" the initiates of Lowell Mason Club had to scrub the steps of Old Main with a tooth-brush, carry their books to class in a pillowcase for a week, and have an egg signed by the members of the music faculty—all to prove their sincerity in wishing to belong and to make them eligible for the formal initiation.

The Lowell Mason Club Homecoming float "Victory on Iwo Jima" won second place honors. At Christmas time the members went caroling at the hospitals, at the homes of shut-ins, and at the various homes of the members of the music department. In February they had the usual Valentine party with games and refreshments reflecting the traditional Valentine theme. This organization presented the stunt "Musicana" at the University stunt show in May.

Wielding the gavel as president for the year was Dorothy Fisherkeller, a senior; Meryl Singley, another senior, recorded the minutes of the meetings; and Maralyn Holley, a junior, competently juggled the financial record. Naoma Glasscock, junior, acted as historian. All of the officers are music majors. Miss Margaret Westhoff, director of Women's Chorus and music instructor, is sponsor of the Lowell Masons.

Lowell Mason Club, named for the "Father of Public School Music," has been active on campus for 24 years. It was founded to further the appreciation of music and to provide social relationships for members of the music department.

Woman's Place Is in The Home

If the road to a man's heart is really through his stomach, these Home Ec majors and minors should hold a round trip ticket. It's also common knowledge that these girls can work wonders with the needle and thread. And when it comes to social life they display their talents in Home Ec club.

Programs for the year were arranged by Marjorie Frederickson, program chairman. The picnic in the fall helped new Home Ec students to become acquainted with the members of the organization.

The candlelight service, held at the beginning of the year, gave new members an opportunity to become initiated into the club. The Christmas party in Cook Hall afforded an opportunity for Home Ec students to get together with their guests for games and caroling.

One of the regular monthly meetings was conducted in the form of a round-table discussion on woman's place in homemaking today. At these meetings, plans were made for sending delegates to home economics conventions, for parties, and for such events as the chili supper which the club sponsored in February.

As home economics teachers, these students will find responsibilities in supervising school banquets and directing the work of helping to prepare students as future homemakers.

Laverda Sparks, senior from Lincoln, served as president of the organization. The duties of vice-president were carried out by Betty Lawrence. Keeping the notes of meetings and collecting dues and paying bills were the tasks of Doris Rittenhouse, secretary-treasurer. Miss Frances Conkey acted as sponsor of the group.

Citizens of Tomorrow

"Don't forget to cast your ballot."

This is the way the women on campus were greeted as they hurriedly passed Four Corners that day in March that is set aside as Women's Day at ISNU.

College League of Women Voters was in charge of the annual election of officers of the various all women's organizations on campus. Although it was the 13th, the voting on Women's Day was carried on with an unusually even smoothness, according to Feona Kietzman, president of the League.

The organization is open to all women students and is devoted to lectures and discussions concerning the intelligent use of the rights of citizenship.

These active young women not only study situations concerning voting techniques, but get out and see the actual operations of the many political theories as they did on their trip to the Bloomington Court House in November.

Dean Anna L. Keaton was hostess to members of the voters' league in December when they had their Christmas party. The holiday spirit was carried out in red and green decorations, Santa Claus candies, and a wishing well of gifts.

Dr. Karl Bleyl of the biological science department, was guest speaker at the Club's January meeting—his topic, "Socialized Medicine." Dr. Bleyl emphasized the necessity for tomorrow's citizens to understand the meaning of socialized medicine.

Ida Hinz, vice-president, and Kathryn Masten, secretary-treasurer, were well pleased with the large number of students of voting age honored on the annual Citizenship Recognition Day sponsored by the Voters' League on May 8. Miss Edna Gueffroy of the geography department, sponsors the club.

With the Greatest of Ease

Women's Recreational Association is responsible for the smooth sailing of many of the women's athletic activities on campus. Their program includes sponsorship of fall and spring outings, intramurals, play nights, parties, and picnics.

Homecoming is always a time of excitement for members of WRA. This year the Homecoming Luncheon turned out to be a regular reunion of physical education majors.

Once each month WRA sponsored a play night of volleyball, shuffleboard, table tennis, mixed dancing—social and folk—and badminton.

Each spring WRA sponsors a camping trip to Lake Bloomington. Those fortunate to attend really get a chance to camp under the stars, sleep in tents, eat their own cooking, swim, and play games for two days, without a worry in the world.

Christmas always means a party in WRA, and this year the evening was turned over to dancing, card games, and, of course, refreshments.

Shirley Kelly, president, Virginia Schingel, vice-president, Elaine Parsons, secretary, and Mary Bell, treasurer, were all on hand in February when the organization sponsored an ice-skating party in Champaign. Some of the more cautious members supplied themselves with blankets and pillows just in case.

The roller skating party this spring was a spectacular affair. To the music of records a record-breaking crowd swirled about the floor and, as would be expected, there were quite a few spills.

The May banquet and installation of new officers rounded up the activities of WRA for the year.

Brawn, Beauty, and Brains

The Women's Physical Education Club was first organized on a purely professional basis. But these majors and minors in Health and Sports manage to mix successfully business with pleasure. Stop in McCormick gym one evening after Physical Education Club meeting and find badminton rackets flying, table tennis in full swing, and a crowd gathered around the shuffleboard.

The theme for the club's Homecoming float was "Laying the Eggs for DeKalb." Esther Larson, president, shed her egg shell and, with the other officers and members, attended the annual Homecoming luncheon held jointly with WRA.

The club members sponsored a Christmas party in December for the boys at Victory Hall. The children played various games, sang carols as they sat around the Christmas tree, and there were gifts for all when Santa Claus made his grand entrance.

The members from the junior class were in charge of the first meeting and presented a discussion on "Youth Hostels in Foreign Countries." A panel discussion stressing manners, clothes, and campus cues comprised the program sponsored by the senior club members.

The interclass basketball tournaments for physical education majors and minors were sponsored by Physical Education Club. It was really a fight to the finish to determine which class would win the trophy that has been handed down through the years.

Other officers this year included Evelyn Smith, vice-president; Eugenia Bowers, secretary-treasurer; and Miss Roene Stanley, faculty sponsor.

They're Letter Winners!

N Club, organization of varsity letter winners, was busy again this year with its varied activities, some for itself and some for the whole school. This he-man club has had upwards of 500 members in its 25 years of existence. Each fall and spring it adds to this already large number by means of initiations, and old members have a chance of doing to initiates what was done to them.

Purposes of the club are to foster athletics and to encourage good sportsmanship among athletes and students. Lettermen set the example toward these goals.

Among its many annual activities, N Club sponsored the election of the Homecoming queen in October. Club president Tom Kienle crowned Margaret Ann Stipp as queen at the Homecoming dance. This year, for the first time since 1941, N Club held a meeting for its alumni in the scout room of McCormick gymnasium.

Other activities included operating a concessions stand at football games, co-sponsorship of the annual Good Will dance together with the lettermen's club of Illinois Wesleyan University after the Normal-Wesleyan football game, and sponsorship of the McLean county basketball tournament. For this event the lettermen sell advertising space on the programs to help defray expenses involved in the tournament. N Clubmen also have a concessions stand throughout the tournament. They do all the work connected with conducting the tournament and pay all expenses.

Regular meetings for its own members were other functions of this group. President Tom Kienle presided at meetings with the assistance of Russell Benway as vice-president and Robert Lindsey as secretary-treasurer. Coach Howard J. Hancock served as sponsor of the group.

They're Back in Civvies Now

"Join the Golden Eagles!" From Four Corners bulletin boards to McCormick Gym, from the choice spot in the library on Registration Day, the information office, and via the Vidette ISNU veterans have read and responded to these little black and white placards.

The veterans held their first meeting late in September, when George Moore was elected the first president of this new campus organization. Other officers elected were Fred Triebe, vice-president; Thomas J. Newman, treasurer; Ida Haddock, secretary; and Donald Meinhold, sergeant-at-arms.

The Golden Eagles received official recognition and approval to their name and constitution and became active under the sponsorship of Coach Joe Cogdal.

At the Homecoming Recognition Service for ISNU alumni, Mr. Moore spoke in behalf of the returned veterans.

"V for Victory," the Eagles' Homecoming float, won third place in the big parade with a representative of different branches of the service standing at attention in dress uniform. Ida Haddock, WAC; Elizabeth DeReamer, WAVE; Jeanne Bartelt, Marine; Corliss Norton, Soldier; Michael Caringello, Marine; George Moore, Navy; Mel Knapp, Naval Officer; and James Arnold, Army Air Force Officer.

Bringing the South Sea Islands to ISNU, The Golden Eagles hula-hulaed in grass skirts, wigs, and leis amid palms and green paper grass at the Women's League Winter Carnival.

As Walter V. Brown, State Director of Veterans' Education and Vocational Rehabilitation, declared at one meeting, "You are preparing for a much needed profession, and the Veterans' Administration is pleased to have so many veterans enrolled at the oldest State Teachers College in Illinois."

Kappa Delta Pi

Kappa Delta Pi, honor society in education, is made up of students having a high scholastic average in all curricular work.

Activities for the year began with the annual Homecoming luncheon which was a gay occasion as many alumni and service men were welcomed back.

"Trends in Post-War Education" was selected by members as the theme for the year. Programs included a talk by Dr. Richard G. Browne, who told of his experiences with the Illinois Research Council, a lecture by Dr. H. O. Lathrop, who explained the need for conserving our resources, and a student panel on special education.

Officers included Janet Blundell, president, Norma Whitver, vice-president, Maxine Sponsler, secretary, and Beverly Pyle, treasurer. Dean Emeritus H. H. Schroeder was sponsor of the group.

Pi Kappa Delta

"Resolved: That the foreign policy of the United States should be directed toward the establishment of free trade throughout the world."

The pros and cons of this proposition were debated during the year by members of Pi Kappa Delta, national honorary forensic fraternity. Its members are elected for participation in forensics with chapters in other schools.

Officers for the year were Rosemary Browne, president; Marjorie Johnson, vice-president; and Iris Shreve, secretary-treasurer.

The fraternity reaped additional honors at the regional PKD convention in which Ray Hanson, Wendell Wright, Marjorie Johnson, Loraine Bailev, and Allegra Gulon earned superior and excellent ratings.

Ann Allen, Dorothy Balkin, and Wendell Wright were initiated into the fraternity in April.

Pi Omega Pi

Gamma Theta Upsilon

"Service, Loyalty, and Progress." That is the motto of Pi Omega Pi. The members are elected to join on the basis of scholastic record. In addition they must have completed sixteen hours in Business Education and five hours in education.

The highlights of the year included the Homecoming breakfast at Hotel Rogers and initiation in October; then the faculty members in Business Education took their turn in acting as hosts and hostesses.

A unit of professional research formed the background for the study periods throughout the year, with Miss Olivia Hansen as sponsor. Other officers included Rachel West, president; Sarah Schneider, vice-president; Vernalee Norton, secretary; and Pauline Elgin, treasurer.

Travel was the fancy of Gamma Thetians this year. Initiates were engaged as crew by President Marion Rouse and Vice-president Glenn Gilbertson.

Imaginary travels included a voyage to Hawaii with Miss Edna Gueffroy at the helm, and a flight to Acadia with Dr. Charles Decker. The trippers were home in April to enjoy a talk by Mr. Clinton Morgan.

Sponsor "Prof" Leslie Holmes almost upset the boat when he informed members that the geography field course would be resumed this summer. This course, in the form of a trip through the west, has been omitted from the curriculum since 1942 because of wartime restrictions.

Finances for all the trips of Gamma Theta Upsilon were handled by Esther Larson. The log was kept by Zola Harvey. Cecelia Cyrier mapped itineraries, and Beverly Pyle posted advertisements.

Kappa Mu Epsilon

Einstein, Pythagoras, Euclid, Simpson, DesCartes, Newton, and Euler,—these are the forbears of members of Kappa Mu Epsilon, the national honorary mathematics fraternity. Formal initiation, Homecoming breakfast for members and alumni, Christmas party, and the spring banquet have been the highlights of Kappa Mu Epsilon's activities this year.

With Miss Elinor B. Flagg to advise the organization, Maxine Sponsler was elected "Gauss" president; Mary Donnell, "Pascal" vice-president; Laverne Wenzelman, "Napier" treasurer; and Martha Lewis, "Ahmes" secretary.

Regular meetings of the year included a discussion and display of Dr. C. N. Mills' collection of early mathematics books, and proofs of Pythagorean Proposition by Lois Winsett, Laverne Wenzelman, and Alice McCorkle.

During the second semester KME admitted ten new pledges, and received four old members, Ralph Paulsen, Harold Gambrel, Warren Buck, and John Dickman.

Sigma Tau Delta

To foster creative writing is the chief purpose of Sigma Tau Delta, national honorary English fraternity.

Formal initiation, the Homecoming breakfast, and Shakespeare's birthday party are only a few of the excuses of these students for a get-together. Also included in this year's programs were book reviews, singing Christmas carols at the English faculty's homes, and a talk by Dr. Florence Teager on New England summer theaters.

Mr. Edwin Rakow, former Sigma Tau Delta member at ISNU, was the speaker at the annual spring banquet at the Rogers Hotel. The banquet was the final event of the year.

The Vidette and the Rectangle, national fraternity magazine, receive literary contributions from these students.

Officers for the year were Marjorie Wolf, president; Ruthelma Benjamin, vice-president; Cherry Jackson, secretary; Ruth Gathman, treasurer; Norma Whitver, literary editor; Dr. Herbert R. Hiett, sponsor.

Jesters

Mysteries of the theatrical world are explored by Jesters, amateur wearers of the boot and buskin. This year they presented a skit at the Carnival and presented an assembly program.

For their stunt "Where the Golden Moments Are," Jesters won first place in the Stunt Show, thus entitling them to permanent possession of the Stunt Show cup.

But foremost among the activities of these dramatic-minded students comes their participation in plays. They may be found not only on the stage, but behind the scenes, working on lights, properties, scenery, and make-up.

Initiation ceremonies, the Christmas party, and the spring picnic helped to make this year's program.

Officers for the year were June Rickey, president; Iris Bates, vice-president; Loraine Bailey, secretary; and Laverda Sparks, treasurer. Dr. F. S. Sorrenson was sponsor.

Theta Alpha Phi

To promote the recognition of students in dramatics who have done outstanding work is the purpose of Theta Alpha Phi, honorary dramatic fraternity.

Initiation into this organization is held once each semester, at which time students are accepted on the basis of what they have contributed toward the University Theatre productions on the campus, and their interest in dramatic performance.

The activities of this group includes such things as monthly dinner meetings, programs in conjunction with Jesters, and sponsoring the commencement play every year.

Officers for this year were Marjorie Johnson, president; Leija McReynolds, vice-president; and Ruthelma Benjamin, secretary-treasurer. Miss Ruth Yates served as sponsor of this organization.

Pi Gamma Mu

Kappa Delta Epsilon

"Students of social science" is the meaning of the Greek words "Pi Gamma Mu," the name of the honor society for junior and senior majors in the social science department.

The purpose of Pi Gamma Mu is the inculcation of the ideals of a scholarly, scientific attitude and methods of social service in the study of all social problems.

Student members of Pi Gamma Mu plan and participate in most of the programs for the monthly meetings. To members of this society Christmas always means a party, and spring brings plans for a picnic.

Mrs. Dorothy G. Brunk is sponsor of the organization. Officers of the fraternity are Wendell McCray, president; Eloise Holzhauer, vice-president; Ruth Gathman, secretary; and Norma Whitver, treasurer.

"The Task of Education in Peacetime" was the theme of Kappa Delta Epsilon, national education sorority, organized to promote the professional and personal development of prospective teachers.

The theme of the year was carried out in the programs which included a talk by Dr. A. H. Larson, "Helping the Veteran," a book review by Miss Esther Vinson, a lecture by Dr. Richard G. Browne, and the reading of excerpts by Dr. Huberta Clemans, from the book ANATOMY OF PEACE. The activities of the year were brought to a close with the annual Founders' Day banquet.

Lay On, MacDuff!

Look who's here! Yes, they're back! Who? Blackfriars, of course. You still don't know what I'm talking about? Well, it's this-a-way. Blackfriars is a national men's fraternity composed of actors, comedians, musicians, and composers.

Kappa Lambda chapter was organized on our campus in 1933, and every year thereafter they wrote and produced a musical comedy until the war came along and took them all away. Now that the men are returning to campus, Blackfriars is being revived.

Officers were elected in February from eight former members of this unique organization. Those chosen included Ralph Houghton, abbot; Rusty Harris, vice-abbot; and Jack Dempster, secretary-treasurer. Dr. Dale B. Vetter acted as sponsor.

What do they do? I'm coming to that. First, all those of the male species who were interested in becoming members tried out. Following that came initiation. Those fellows you saw running around campus with raw eggs collecting the autographs of their instructors were being initiated into Black-friars. This was just one of the ordeals of "Hell Week." Did anyone live through it? Seventeen fellows did.

Did they put on a show this year? They certainly did. Naturally, they had a great deal of difficulty in selecting a name for the production. They even went so far as to study Shakespearean drama to get just the right title.

Since the whole production was very much of a secret until it was presented on April 12, it was anybody's guess what would happen. The Blackfriars did divulge the following information however: Quote —You sic a gimble passa mobba boy scout with a thimble gig and the gibble deck'll sadda flicker flack to the Saratoga bassatub—Unquote.

But about the title. Dr. I. B. Thatchtop submitted as a title, "Leave Us Go To The Office." However, many of his colleagues opposed him. So after much debate and further discussion the inspiration finally broke through with "Junction 15 or It's The Pigeon Who Pays." Clear, isn't it?

They Know Their Dates

Racing across the campus—eager to get to the meeting on time—leaving homework undone—what's the rush? “Social Science Club tonight,” answer these authorities on dates, current events, and history and rush on toward Old Main where their colleagues have gathered for an hour of intellectual fun.

To promote and maintain interest in social science is the primary purpose of this club, sponsored by Dr. Lucy L. Tasher. Never let it be said, though, that these social science majors and minors confine all of their time to remembering dates.

Membership hit a new peak this year after the first semester's initiation. The frightened little initiates had questions thrown at them from all directions. For a while, some of them were afraid they wouldn't make the grade when they failed to give the date of the Battle of Waterloo, couldn't define money, or couldn't give a theory concerning Hitler's escape.

The Social Science “clubbers” were in charge of the Homecoming parade this year. Their float brought them fourth prize, and they won third in the house decorations with the theme “Till the End of Time.”

Ruth Gathman, president, was quite proud of the club's panel discussion on Russia. Questions were raised concerning Russia's economic, political and social theories, and problems.

Movies on the Pearl Harbor attack and on the life of Roosevelt constituted the program at the club's January meeting. Wendell Wright, vice-president; Pat Marsten, secretary; and Mary Brucker, treasurer, were all on hand when the club's activities were closed with the annual spring picnic and softball game.

With the passing of Old Main came a change in the meeting place of Social Science Club. However, that had no effect on attendance at the meetings—these students really remember their dates.

It's a Small World After All

With the help of both faculty and student body, the Intercultural Club has successfully completed its first year on campus. Its purpose is to sponsor a better understanding between groups of different racial heritage, accomplished through such activities as maintaining a library, working together on various projects, participating in forum and panel discussions. Outside speakers contributed immensely toward making more enjoyable the meetings of the club.

Mr. Perry Saito, Japanese-American, presented to the members at one of their meetings, both sides of the problem concerning Americans of Japanese descent. His informal, humorous manner was appealing to all.

Rabbi U. B. Steuer of Moses Montefiore Temple was the speaker at another of the meetings and told of "Jewish Rituals and Holidays."

In October the sponsor of the organization, Dr. John A. Kinneman, and the president, Dillye Foster, submitted to the club new ideas reported at a meeting on intergroup relationships at International House on the campus of the University of Chicago.

Dr. Karl Bleyl of the biological science department spoke at the February meeting. In his talk, entitled "Autobiography," Dr. Bleyl gave a synopsis of what would be contained in his autobiography if he should ever write one. He included many experiences he had combatting fear and prejudice.

The next meeting was in the form of a talent show given by members of the club. Isabelle Simpson, secretary-treasurer, made an excellent mistress of ceremonies.

Other officers for the year include Anita Dorsey, vice-president and Beverly Pyle, custodian.

They Dabble in Paint and Clay

'Round and 'round on the merry-go-round danced the couples to the melodic strains of Mendel Riley's orchestra at the traditional Beaux Arts Ball sponsored by the Palette Club. Co-chairmen of one of the big formals of the year were Dillye Foster and vice-president Arlene Waters.

The club's membership is open to all art majors and minors and to other students whose idols include Benton and Taft, Rembrandt and Michelangelo. The Palette Club was designed to foster art interest at ISNU and to acquaint its members with the current movements of art.

Fun, food, and frolic prevailed at most of the meetings of the club's 1945-46 calendar. In the fall a wiener roast was held in Fell Park, and during Homecoming week end the group welcomed alumni to a "Dessert

Rendezvous" in the art room, which was decorated like a "still life."

But it wasn't all play at these meetings, for "work nights" were planned to make posters and paper designs for the Beaux Arts Ball. Lectures were also scheduled on the calendar. Professor Kenneth B. Loomis from Illinois Wesleyan University spoke February 18 on "Problems of Artists in the Present Day." In April Miss Ethel Latta related her experiences with the Red Cross in New York City.

Minutes of the meetings, presided over by President Guinevere Long, were recorded by Secretary Doris Rittenhouse and finances were budgeted by Dorothy Jensen, treasurer. Janet Blundell handled the literary publicity and Mildred Fry the art publicity. The faculty sponsor was Dr. Louis Hoover.

Don't Fence Me In!

Dedicated to the promotion of better living in small communities—this is the purpose of Hieronymus Club which has for its motto “Every Member a Worker.” The club is made up of students who have a sincere interest in rural communities and the scholastic average required for membership. The organization, a member of the Country Life Association, was founded in 1922 by Dr. Hieronymus, a graduate of ISNU, who taught at Carleton College and who later became president of Eureka College.

Program plans rather went agley during the year. Dr. Karl Bleyl, assistant professor of biological science, was scheduled twice to speak to the group on the subject “Health and the Community,” but both times he was unable to be present.

A Christmas party was to be held at which time new members were to be elected, but these plans also had to be abandoned.

Some of the more successful programs were a talk entitled “What Can Youth Expect in Education” by Dr. John A. Kinneman, associate professor of social science, and pictures shown by Ashley Miller, a returned veteran from the Army Air Corps taken while he was in service overseas.

Miss Cecelia Peickert, who has charge of the museum exhibits in Milner library, lectured before the group later in the year. Names of prospective members had previously been voted on by the organization, and it was at this meeting that initiation was held. The activities of Hieronymus Club were brought to a close with an annual spring picnic at which time officers for the following year were elected.

Officers serving the organization this year were Vivian Wolfe, president; Barbara Torreyson, vice-president; Margaret Hinshaw, secretary; La Verne Wenzelman, treasurer; and June Mitchell, program chairman. Dr. Rose E. Parker, professor of education, sponsored the group.

Farm Comes to College

ISNU has its own demonstration farm facing Main street as a part of the Division of Agriculture Education. This 97-acre farm is a complete rural unit, intended to be a close model of any good, modern farm. The University Farm has developed with the school since its founding in 1857.

Primary purpose of the farm is to serve as a laboratory for students taking agriculture courses. Classes in vegetable gardening learn how to prune trees and how to care for various garden and orchard crops. An experimental plot of approximately four acres has been set up as a demonstration of suitable forage crops.

Other courses offered that make use of practical application and experience at the University are livestock management and field machinery. University high school classes take advantage of the farm in their study of agriculture.

University farm has twelve buildings, six of them being new. Some of these buildings are judging pavilion, dairy barn, horse barn, sheep barn, swine barn, beef barn, poultry house, and a spacious farm house. All facilities of a modern farm are available at the University farm.

Peach and apple orchards, a grape arbor, and raspberry and blackberry patches provide experience in caring for the fruit produce of a farm. Methods of planting, pruning, and spraying are demonstrated to be of importance for success in growing these fruits.

Latest addition to the farm is not a representative of agriculture at all. It is an airplane which ISNU received from the United States government for use in physics classes. This plane served during the war and cannot be flown any more since it is not licensed. It will be dismantled and taken to the science building to be studied.

Mr. Charles Mercier, Mr. Paul Graves, Mr. Ernest Sanders, Mr. Harold Webster, and Mr. William Wilder direct all activities of the University Farm. While these men do the actual work of keeping the farm going, members of the faculty of the agriculture department do all teaching at the farm.

Among other new campus clubs this year was the McMurray Chapter of the Future Teachers of America. This chapter of the national organization was begun on this campus through the efforts of the Faculty Committee on Professional Affairs. The chief purpose of the group is to provide for the personal and professional growth of future teachers.

Future Teachers of America is an organization for high schools, for colleges, and for in-service teachers. The only prerequisite for membership in this society is an interest in teaching as a worthy profession.

FTA college and university chapters were first chartered early in 1939. By 1942 there were more than 100 such chapters. FTA has set up certain desirable standards for a successful chapter in regard to membership, size of club, plans for the growth of the chapter, possible activities for the group, and methods of attaining professional skills and growth.

Future Teachers' Pledge states that "The good teacher requires physical vitality, mental vigor, moral discrimination, wholesome personality, helpfulness, knowledge, and leadership."

Since FTA has been in process of organization, its members have not been able to plan special meetings for this year. They have been planning a program for the future, however.

Charter members of FTA included 47 persons. Officers elected at an early meeting were as follows: Lorraine Jenkins, president; Eldon Scriven, vice-president; Louise Kraus, secretary; June Hayden, treasurer; Edgar Smallwood, program director; Margaret Proctor, librarian; Muriel Gresham, historian; Wanda Jones, song leader. Dr. Nell B. Waldron served as sponsor pro tem.

Atomic--But Definitely!

Technical, scientific, but exciting are a few of the words that describe a typical meeting of the Science Club. Dr. Clyde T. McCormick upholds the club's tradition by serving as faculty president.

Majors and minors in mathematics, biology, geography, home economics and physical science with the required scholastic average, compose the student membership which this year, according to Anita Dorsey, secretary-treasurer, reached above the "45" mark.

The Science Club members traveled to the Far East, imaginatively of course, at their first meeting when Prof. D. R. Bey of the mathematics department talked on navigational charts used by the United States Navy. Mr. Bey's talk resulted, in giving one the feeling that he could plot his course to any part of the world, get there and back and still be in time for that first hour class the next morning.

Dr. Nina E. Gray of the biological science department talked at another meeting on "Amoebic Dysentery and the Organism That Causes It." Science Club members have been greeting each other with "endamoeba histolitica" ever since.

The rain was literally falling in sheets the night Lt. Charles Thomas of the Permanent Weather Bureau at Rantoul spoke to the club on "Weather." He gave the early history of the recordings of weather, explained some of the instruments used in weather forecasting and showed a movie entitled "Air Masses."

The intricacies of the atom, its powers and effect upon humanity were some of the features of a talk given by Prof. Clarence L. Cross of the physical science department. The faces of many of the club members beamed with interest and understanding as Mr. Cross explained the work and possible use of atomic energy. It was amazing.

The club, however, does not devote all of its time to scientific research and laboratory problems. Marjorie Fredrickson, vice-president of the organization, acted as "chief cook" at the club's annual spring picnic at Fell Park.

Any Bug--You Name It

"Why, of course that's a soldier beetle . . . Did you see that beautiful black and white warbler near the library yesterday? . . . Insects can be collected everywhere in the world except in the depths of the ocean . . . How can you distinguish between a Norway Maple and a Silver Maple?"

Such snatches of conversation would be heard at a typical meeting of the Nature Study Club. Any student interested in nature is eligible for membership. This year the club has been working on a number of projects, foremost of which is an insect collection. In a talk by Dr. Nina Gray of the biological science department the members were given instructions on collecting and preserving insects.

As their contribution toward a successful Homecoming, these nature lovers decorated the front yard at the home of their sponsor, Dr. J. E. Young. Their theme, "Survival of the Fittest," brought the club second prize among house decorations. Could you have seen these hard working members after their task was completed, you would have wondered if, but would have been assured that, the Nature Study Club always survives.

Another project this year was tree planting at Lake Bloomington. Their hours of work were forgotten when they smelled the coffee and rolls that had been prepared by the president, Dorothy Harris. Other club officers this year include Anita Dorsey, vice-president; Henrietta Carlson, secretary; and Natalie Wessels, treasurer.

Row Seven—Miller, Morris, Lucero, Brenneman, Kapraun.

Business Before Pleasure

This year—as always—Business Education Club is one of the largest and most active clubs on the campus. It came into being in 1914, when Prof. Arthur Williams (emeritus) organized it, soon after the introduction of the business curriculum at ISNU.

The club got off to a good start on October 9, when a program, "Calendar Cut-ups," furnished a preview of the meetings for the year. The traditional Den of Horror—initiation—took place in the dungeon of Cook Hall, a most appropriate setting for the ghostlike ritual.

Other highlights of the year included Miss Gertrude Dubats' talk on "Over There," Miss Mary Buell's talk on "Goin' Steady," Santa Claus Scamper, Cupid's Cues, and the Annual Farewell Picnic.

The club also participated in several all-campus affairs, including the House Decorating program and the parade at Homecoming. The Homecoming float inscribed "It is Our Business to Defeat DeKalb Today" (a D.D.T. theme) won first prize in the parade.

The success of the club this year has been due to the fine teamwork of all members led by the able faculty sponsor, Miss Alta Day; and the officers, Francis Larson, president; Margaret Breen, vice-president; Marjorie Hunt, secretary; and Janice Munson, treasurer.

Working at the Baby Fold, painting toys, giving puppet shows, and conducting a story hour at Withers Library were activities of the Elementary Education Club this year.

The year's work—and pleasure—began with an initiation picnic at University Farm that was attended by 90 elementary students. The traditional wiener roast was followed by initiation of new members.

Club members were all in a huddle watching the Homecoming parade and gave a rousing burst of cheers when their float passed. The Homecoming luncheon was attended by 100 students and faculty.

In October, the Elementary Education Club sent Doris Zimmer, president, and Grace Glaser as delegates to a meeting in Chicago of the Association for Childhood Education.

At their Christmas party, the club members brought gifts which were given to the children at the ISSCS. At the previous meeting, Miss Marion Allen of the art department, talked on Christmas decorations, and the results of her talk were obvious from the unique plan of decorations at the party.

At the March meeting, student members made scrap books for the children in Brokaw Hospital. "Talent Night" was held in April when there was a display of musical and literary accomplishments.

The success of the May banquet was due in part to the work and artistry of Doris Wilkes, secretary; Lois Peabody, treasurer; Georgia Grossart, program chairman; and Miss Elsie Grime, acting sponsor.

"De Gustibus"

"Roam to Rome, the Catacomb" and discover how the Romans ate, drank, debated, and did battle has been the general aim of the Latin Club since 1920, the year in which it was formed. No rules of eligibility for membership in this club exist other than a lively curiosity in the history of Rome and familiarity with the Latin language.

Led by their chief guide, Dr. Lenore Geweke, the club members traveled to Rome, where they observed the Saturnalia, from which come some of our Christmas customs. A skit in honor of the celebration was enacted by President Jean McAtee, Secretary-Treasurer Mary Lawless, Vice-President Lorraine Bobbett, and Myra Barz.

Enthralled by the grandeur of the Augustan Age the tourists remained the rest of the year in order to learn more about the ways of the Latins. Ken Miller delved into Caesar's history and composed a quiz on the latter's life and family, which was published in the Classical Journal.

When they had become more familiar with their surroundings, Martha Luke, Marilyn Theis, and Ken Miller set up a Carnival booth on the Appian Way, which depicted scenes of Roman private life. To further amuse themselves, the tourists played Latin anagrams and bingo with Roman mythology.

In May the program chairman, Lorraine Bobbett, conducted the reluctant group back to the YWCA in Bloomington for the annual banquet. Toasts of farewell were given to the departing seniors and a special toast of thanks was made to the club's sponsor, Dr. Geweke.

Parlons Francais, S'il Vous Plait

Les etudiants of the language and civilization of France gather once each month to chat (sometimes haltingly) en francais about their dreams of one day browsing through the bookstalls on the left bank of the Seine, of sipping an apertif at a sidewalk cafe, and of strolling through the gardens of the Luxembourg palace to see the espaliered trees.

Chez Mlle Ellis, la directrice, the first meeting of the year was held to elect les officiers—la Presidente Betty Cross et la Secretoire-tresoriere Barbara Kinder were chosen to preside over the group.

At later meetings les mesdemoiselles enjoyed several movies en francais about La Normandie, Le Mont St. Michel, and les cathedrales et chateaux de la France, all of which heightened their appreciation for the beauties of the former kingdom of the Franks. They also listened to Charles Boyer's recording of "Liberte, Egalite, Fraternite," and Charles Trenet singing "Je Chante" and "Vous avez oubliez votre cheval."

En fevrier at a Valentine's party chez Mlle Bell les mesdemoiselles welcomed a male member to the cercle —M. John O'Hara, who was with the army in France during the war. Les membres looked at M. O'Hara's maps and pictures of France and listened to Mlle Ellis and M. O'Hara reminisce about the comical antics of the Parisian taxi drivers and the excellent savor of the French foods.

In the spring the fancy of the cercle turned traditionally to a pique-nique at Fell Park where the group ended its food- and song-fest with the tune of "Freres Jacques" and bade one another "Au Revoir" till September.

Home Management House where home ec seniors gain practical experience in the arts of homemaking.

Who Burned the Biscuits?

Any enticing aromas that might penetrate the walls of the Home Management House may be anything from a gala party to just another meal prepared by the Home Ec students who spend nine weeks of their senior year here.

Many problems that confront the modern housewife may well be expected to be met by Home Management House. Being able to solve these problems is oftentimes a task to discourage even the most determined of homemakers.

"So Little Time"

If you don't think it takes careful planning to carry out the duties of a homemaker then you've been misinformed. Even with the aid of all her modern devices the modern homemaker must juggle her hours to take care of her many tasks that include such things as doing the laundry, cleaning, planning menus, marketing, and then preparing and serving the meals. But the girls who live here divide their duties so that each may take her turn in serving as cook, assistant cook and waitress, upstairs housekeeper, and downstairs housekeeper with opportunities also to act as hostess.

In order that their home may run more smoothly and the work be easier, each one must be responsible for such details as the planning and preparation of meals, serving, buying the groceries, and cleaning.

Finances and Fricassee

In every household someone must be responsible for balancing the books and so it goes here. These girls, who live together as a family, work out a budget. An accurate account of expenditure is kept so that the girls will not go beyond the amount that has been allowed in the budget.

To be a charming hostess is a secret desire of every homemaker so it's only natural that entertaining should play an important role at the Home Management House. And poise is a requirement for a good maid just as it is for a good hostess, so these Home Ec girls get plenty of experience as both. Each girl may give one student party and one dinner party, and, of course, all the other girls are around to help when there's a party in the air.

"The Best-Laid Plans . . ."

There's always lots of excitement when someone forgets to set the electric time on the oven for the roast to cook (if there's a roast available) or lets the potatoes boil dry. These are the episodes that aid in making them experienced homemakers.

The house itself is a practical example of how to furnish and equip a home in the traditional manner as is used in the south side, or the modern trend such as the north side.

With Miss Francis Conkey as their house director these girls live together and find the tasks of home-making filled with responsibilities but lots of fun. Accomplishing their many daily tasks is made easy by planning sufficient time ahead in which to do everything, and with the assistance of a budget book these efficient homemakers make their accounts as well as their time balance.

Follow The Gleam

"Yum, yum, such delicious cookies and punch! I'm glad I answered the invitation of the YW girls to attend their tea." Such was the first impression of YWCA received by freshman girls of ISNU. They soon discovered that there was work mixed with the play. For instance that two-mile hike before the annual Walk-out Breakfast and the "Mum" sale at Homecoming.

Interest locators were used to determine the types of programs desired by the group. As a result, impressive litany worship services, talks on Lake Geneva "Y" conferences, and panels were presented concerning the World Student Service Fund.

It was with a feeling of work well started that blue books containing a record of the year's activities and suggestions for the year to come were passed on to the newly elected officers and chairmen at the installation service.

Officers for the year included Martha Lewis, president; Beverly Pyle, vice-president and program chairman; Doris Jean Fillingham, secretary; Evelyn Bell, treasurer; and Miss Neva McDavitt, sponsor.

A Mighty Fortress

This is the tenth anniversary of a Lutheran organization on campus. Maybe you remember it as Gamma Delta or perhaps Lutheran Student Organization, but it is now called Lutheran Club and is for all students who are members of a Lutheran church. To honor the anniversary a vesper service and an informal dinner were held. Other activities this year have been the Annual Homecoming Breakfast, the May banquet and bowling and skating parties.

"Dating," "Marriage and Divorce," and "Customs of the Church," have been topics of discussions at the monthly meetings. During the Lenten season, the club held Lenten devotions each Wednesday evening. Under the editorship of Marian Kruse, the monthly newspaper, Lutheran ISNEWS, which originated for the boys in service continued to be printed.

Dr. Karl Bleyl is sponsor of Lutheran Club. Marvella Zilly is president; Mary Beth Johnson, vice-president; Jean Savage, secretary; and Marian Kruse, treasurer. Chairman of committees include Doris Zimmer, program; Vivian King, social; Charlotte Hauge, publicity; and Elaine Lundberg, Lutheran room.

A Solid Foundation

Sunday—6:30 p.m. Time for the gathering together of all Presbyterian college students for the weekly meeting of the Westminster Fellowship at the church parlors. Two meetings of the month are devoted to panel discussions by members of the group on pertinent problems dealing with Christian living.

On alternate Sundays spice is added to the program by guest speakers. Among those appearing this year were Professor Bradford Barber, who spoke on the subject "Speech and Social Development," Dr. Richard Browne, who entertained the group with a discussion on "Personal Problems," and Miss Eunice Blackburn, who talked to the Fellowship about her missionary work in Yucatan.

The more jovial side of Christian living was especially emphasized at Hallowe'en, Christmas, and Valentine parties. The climax of the year's activities was the Annual Spring Retreat.

Serving as president for the year was Maxine Sponsler. Phyllis Patterson filled the office of vice-president. The treasurer was Dorothy Jensen, and Norma Jean Davis was secretary. Mrs. Lee Gruver and Mrs. Lee Long were adult sponsors of the group.

We Walk By Faith

Membership in the Canterbury Club is open to all Episcopal students on campus. The meetings of the club are devoted to worship and study of the various phases of Church history, literature, and practices.

At the October meeting Dr. Blanche McAvoy, faculty member of the biology department, gave a history of Church Orders. The following month, Dr. Howard Fielding, faculty sponsor, gave a survey of the poetry in Church literature.

Twice during the year, the meeting was turned over to Rev. F. H. O. Bowman, rector of St. Matthews parish in Bloomington and clerical advisor for the Canterbury Club, who conducted a period of questions and answers. He so inspired the Canterburyans that many of them found a beam of light on that road so often visualized as rocky, rough, and seldom trod.

Hearts were literally being thrown about when the Canterbury Club gave its Valentine party. It was all in fun, and, according to the president, Margaret Rose, none of them were broken.

Others upon whose shoulders rested the executive responsibility were Lucille Barnett, vice-president and Eileen Hibbins, secretary-treasurer.

Cor Ad Cor Loquitur

An affiliate of the Newman Club Federation, an international organization, Newman Club is comprised of more than 186 Catholic students on the campus.

To deepen the spiritual and enrich the temporal lives of its members through a balanced program of religious, intellectual, and social activities; to develop Catholic leadership in its members; and to furnish an agency to which Catholic students may be referred in regard to their religious interests are the chief purposes of the organization.

Through the work of Mary Ruth Long and her committee, the library has been greatly expanded. New pamphlets and books are constantly being added. With veterans returning to the campus, Pat Mueller has been busy keeping the War Service Directory up to date.

Helen Jo O'Connor and her committee planned such monthly programs as a "Question Box"; panel discussions by students; a talk by an alumna, Miss Lola Moate, on "What Do I Believe?"; and talks by Father Lohan.

Mary Lawless, head of the social committee, provided for such social activities as the Homecoming Brunch at Rogers Hotel, card party at Trinity gym, two informal initiations, a Christmas party, May Day Banquet, as well as a Sunday supper and three Communion breakfasts.

Other officers included: Violet Rosenthal, president; Betty Wade, secretary; Rita Kraus, publicity chairman; Mary Ellen Evers, membership chairman; and Joan Ryan, treasurer. Dr. M. Regina Connell was faculty sponsor of Newman Club and Monsignor Moore was the chaplain.

For Creative Living

Every day is buzzin' with action at 101 North Fell, home of Wesley Foundation, the office and lounge adjoining the First Methodist Church. There are Tuesday "Pop-In" teas and Wednesday "Sacrifice" suppers. On Thursday Wesley News, edited by Lee Defenbaugh, goes to press, and on Friday nights members plan hayrides and skating, volley ball and square dancing, spook parties and Easter-egg hunts.

But Sunday is the day for WF. After dining at five on Spanish rice and ice-cream roll, fellow students make merry singing "Patsy Oreyaye," "Little Ole," and a host of other songs. Then, in a spirit of reverence, boys and girls take to the "quiet trail" which leads from the dining room to the candlelit worship center, where inspiring vespers and rousing discussions, led by guest speakers, are held.

Planning this calendar of events is the job of the student council, which includes President Evelyn Bell, vice-president Martha Lewis, secretary-treasurer Marian Healy, and its advisors, Dr. I. S. Corn, director, and Miss Martha Bussert, assistant director and counsellor.

Four-star attractions were the appearances of Mr. Paul Schmucker, Borneo missionary, at a special tea in October, and of Wylma Fletcher, Negro lyric soprano, in a Sunday evening concert, and the presentation of a Christmas pageant, "Follow the Star."

WF sent delegates to the National Methodist Student Conference at Urbana and to the annual state conference at DeKalb. At Spring Retreat the old council members gave parting advice to their successors, who were formally initiated at a May banquet.

Other Religious Activities

Religious Life Board

The Religious Life Board is interested primarily in promoting religious growth among the students. It stands ready to encourage and to cooperate with all inter-denominational efforts on campus.

At the request of this group, Dr. Lynn Radcliffe, pastor in Oak Park, was brought to the campus as assembly speaker January 9.

The personnel of the board is composed of an equal number of faculty and students. During the absence of Miss Bernice Frey, Miss Neva McDavitt was acting chairman. Other faculty members were Miss Mary Webb, secretary; Miss Ruth Cole, Miss Olivia Hansen, Miss Gertrude Dubats, Miss Ruth Zimmerman, and Dr. Carl Gamer. Student members included Mary Elizabeth Johnson, Marjorie Wolf, and Marvelle Zilly.

Baptist Young People's Union

Each Sunday evening a genial group of about 30 college students and high school pupils gathered in the colorful basement of the Normal Baptist Church for a period of Christian fellowship. Programs of the organization were in the form of discussions and dramatizations.

The work of the BYPU was "Service" centered. The young people took gifts to the Negro orphans of the Booker T. Washington Home at Thanksgiving and Christmas. Every member of the group frequently took time out to call on shut-ins.

Officers for the year were Helen Riley, president; Roger Kiper, vice-president; Nellie Sparks, secretary; and Jean Joseph, treasurer. The Reverend John A. Logan was sponsor of the group.

Christian Youth Fellowship

The Christian Youth Fellowship has a membership of approximately 30, all of whom are college students.

The program of this year's meetings was the study of different religions of the world—Buddhism, Mohammedanism, Zoroastrianism, and the later types found in history. As part of the Hebrew study, the group visited the Jewish synagogue in Bloomington.

At the White Gift Service, a special Christmas program, contributions were collected and sent to the church supported orphan's home at St. Louis and the home for old people at Jacksonville, Illinois.

Officers were Jean Howard, president; Meryl Irene Singley, vice-president; Helen Ridlen, secretary-treasurer; and Miss Ferne M. Melrose, sponsor.

They Guide the PE Majors

"On your belly! On your back! Up and run!" These and other directions conducive to girth control emerge from the men's half of McCormick Gym. Popular basketball, track, and cross country coach is Joe Cogdal, affectionately nicknamed "Bloody Joe" because of strenuous physical education ideas.

Dr. C. E. Horton, "Pop" that is, heads the men's physical education department and teaches the intricacies of anatomy on the side. The phys ed majors find themselves toiling and sweating in preparation for "Pop's" oral examinations in Kiniesology.

Howard J. Hancock, newly appointed director of athletics after serving as football and baseball coach for several years, keeps his "eye on the ball" from basketball to ping pong.

Former Navymen Edwin Struck, head football coach and assistant basketball coach, assisted in planning the Commemoration Service for the Veterans of World War II. Another veteran on the staff, Harold Frye, coached the Normal Redbirds on the gridiron and on the baseball diamond along with supervising physical education as a whole. Eugene Hill returned from Red Cross work to coach wrestling, tennis, and intramural activities.

Burt O'Connor and T. J. Douglas are critics in U High and Metcalf respectively. Keeping Normal in trim from kindergarten on, this large department is responsible for many bulging muscles—and bruises.

Champs Again!

Returning to the IIAC after an absence of two years, the fighting Normal Redbirds took the conference crown by pounding out victories over Western, Northern, and Eastern.

Former Assistant Coach Edwin Struck was named head coach upon his return from the Army Air Forces to replace Howard Hancock, who was assigned full-time duties as director of athletics.

With a new coach and 50 men, the Redbirds opened their season against DePauw, a strong Indiana school that was fortified by a V-12 unit. By half-time the score stood at 26 to 0 in favor of the Indiana boys. Coming back on the field for the second half, the Red and Whites held DePauw to one touchdown, scored by Worley early in the third period. From then on Normal held its own.

Birdies Defeat Indiana State

Normal's Redbirds opened their home football season with a 13-6 win over the highly touted Sycamores of Indiana State. The Struckmen scored early when Gene Stratman carried the pigskin across in the first quarter. The second quarter was evenly played, and the half ended with Normal ahead 7-0.

In the third quarter the revived Sycamores marched 73 yards for a score, with Max Woolsey plunging over from the two-yard line. The Redbirds made sure of victory in the last quarter when Louis Baker threw a 17-yard pass to Jake Schlenker, who went the rest of the way to score.

Conference Games Played

Normal's gridmen traveled to Carbondale for their first conference game and lost 33-19. After scoring in the first ten minutes of play, the Birdies suffered from bad luck. Bess, Morelli, Stratman, and Lindsey were forced out of the game because of injuries. At the half the score stood at 20-12 in favor of Southern. Although the Struckmen came back with plenty of spirit after the half, the breaks were against them.

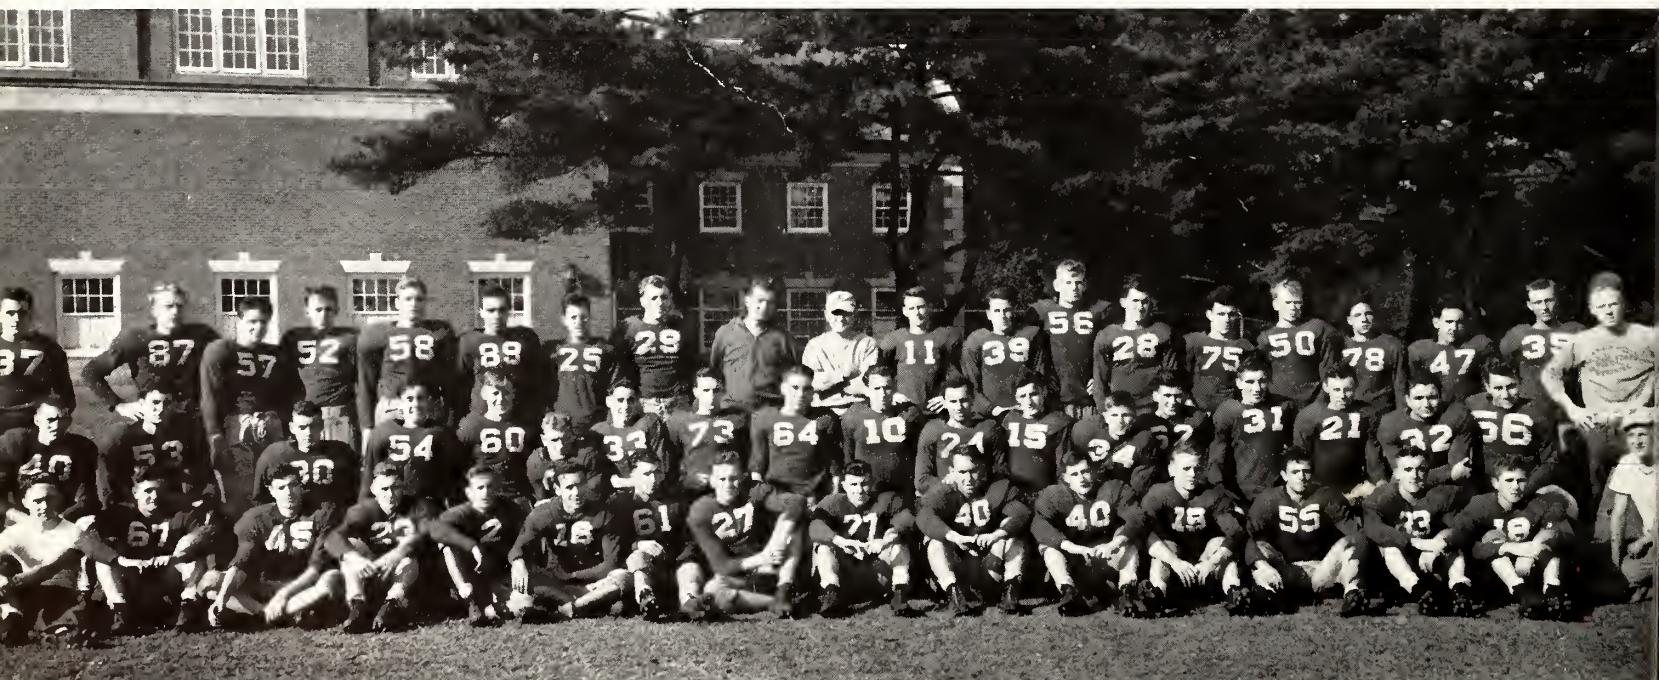

Going to Macomb, Normal trounced the Leathernecks and put a damper on a capacity homecoming crowd. On just the fourth play of the game Baker passed to Schlenker in the end zone. By way of the air Normal scored again in the first quarter, this time with a pass from Baker to Morelli.

The third Normal marker was made in the second quarter by a pass from Stratman to Ron Sharkey. With seconds left in the half the boys from Western intercepted a pass and pushed a score across; the half ended with Normal leading 20-7. The second half found the play in midfield; although Macomb threatened twice, the stubborn Redbird line held each time.

Homecoming Victory Gained

Before a large Homecoming crowd the Struckmen downed DeKalb's Huskies with a 19 to 7 win. DeKalb had the upper hand the first half and scored once on a fumble and a run of 30 yards by Delmar Hosler. ISNU got back into the game when Stratman raced around left end for 20 yards and a score. In the fourth quarter Normal added two more touchdowns to clinch the game. The last marker came in the final minutes when Stratman cut off tackle from the 19 for the touchdown.

Clinching the IIAC crown, the Normalmen won their third straight victory by downing Charleston 12-6. Eastern's lone counter came late in the third quarter when Smith tossed a short pass to Miller, who scored from the 17.

Wesleyan Wins

ISNU ended its season by going down in defeat to the Titans of Illinois Wesleyan 24 to 6 in one of the oldest rivalries of the state. On the opening play from scrimmage Sharkey raced 65 yards to score. The Titans tied the score in the second period by a pass from Klingelhoefer to Bennett and went into the lead on a pass from the same combination just before the half. The heavier Wesleyan line began to wear down the smaller Normal forwards in the second half and scored their third and fourth markers on runs by Bradley and Johns to end the game with a 24 to 6 advantage.

With Bob Jones as captain, the Red and Whites won the IIAC crown in their first postwar year. Three members of the squad—Milton Kuethe, Louid Baker, and Ron Sharkey—were elected to the all-conference football team.

They Know How to Handle the Ball

Basketball returned to civilian hands this year with about 30 men out for daily practice at the beginning of the season. Although Coach Joseph T. Cogdal worked hard to mold a good team, lack of experience slowed the fellows a great deal in breaking through defenses of other teams. Next year should bring several lettermen back to form the nucleus of the squad.

Among those out for daily basketball practice under Coach Cogdal were Dick Anderson, Louid Baker, Howard Bess, Claude Bailey, Bill Best, Dick Brummitt, Mike Caringello, Fritz Dale, Paul Dickman, Tom Galvin, Gene Hamblin, Bob Higgins, Roger Haughey, Jack Lawler, Bob Lindsey, Dick Murphy, Frank

Netterville, Corliss Norton, Gene Stratman, Jake Schlenker, Alex Takaes, Mel Knapp, Bill Howard, Russ Benway, Larry Smith, Ray Morelli, Bob Guedet, Joe Konitzki, Dick Higgins, and Norris Hulvey.

Official Debut

Basketball made its official debut at ISNU on December 6 when the Redbirds met the squad from Concordia College of Springfield on Normal's home floor. The Normalmen scored an easy victory over the Springfield boys by +2 to 24. ISNU led Concordia all the way with Dick Murphy and Bob Higgins leading in scoring with eight points each. Klitzing of Concordia led his teammates with six points. In this game Coach Cogdal used 23 players.

Two days later the Wabash College five handed the Cogdalmen their first defeat, 41 to 32, again at McCormick Gymnasium. Jack Herring of the Hoosier school took top scoring honors with a total of 12 points, while his teammate, John Hull, netted 11 points. Three of the Redbirds who showed great promise in this game were Bob Krapf, Bill Howard, and Bob Higgins. Higgins thrilled the crowds with three long, one-handed shots.

With a final tally of 37 to 26 the Red and White quintet went down in favor of Wheaton College on the Wheaton hardwood. Higgins and Tom Galvin led Normal's scoring with nine and five points respectively, but Wheaton's six-foot-seven center, Dick Hills, scored 14 points himself.

Birdies Suffer Losses

Just three days later Illinois Tech of Chicago journeyed to McCormick to deal out a 41 to 39 defeat to the Redbirds. Fouls seemed to be the feature of this game with 41 being called. Joe Konitzki came forth with ten points for ISNU, while Ray Murphy, the Tech leader, scored eleven points.

In the last game before Christmas the Birdies gained their second victory of the season in a contest against the Arkansas State Teachers Indians. During Christmas vacation the Cogdalmen gave the Millikin five a defeat on the Normal floor. In January the Illinois Techawks gave Normal another trouncing, the second ISNU received from the Chicago boys this season.

Carbondale traveled to McCormick gym on January 12 to gain a victory of 59 to 44 over the Red and White defenders. Southern's Don Sheffer led the scoring with 20 points. The Normalmen showed great spirit, but the cards were stacked against them.

Wesleyan Rejoices

Memorial Gymnasium was the scene of the Redbirds' defeat at the hands of the Wesleyan Titans by a score of 46 to 29. Both squads were determined to win, but the Green and White team had greater height than the Red and Whites. Bill Howard proved to be a valuable player by netting 10 counters. Although the play started out slow, it became a rugged encounter for both squads.

January 19 brought DeKalb to ISNU to down the Birdies on their floor. A week later Normal gave Concordia College its second defeat at Cardinal hands. On Tuesday, January 29, the birds lost to a powerful Charleston quintet on the Charleston floor.

Conference Games

Macomb took the Cardinals to town in the Birdies' first game of the second semester. The Leathernecks left the floor with a neat 55 to 46 win over Normal. During the game there were 51 personal fouls; four men were taken from the floor via the five-foul rule. Hungate and Cook of Western took top scoring honors with 18 and 17 points respectively. Norris Hulvey and Tom Galvin led the fight on the Normal side with 10 and 9 points respectively.

Chanute Field's Plainsmen, highly favored to beat Normal, lived up to expectations by taking the ISNU men for a 73 to 65 loss. Louid Baker netted 18 points and Hulvey 12. Buck Gentry led the Plainsmen with eight baskets and four free shots for a total of 20 points. Experience gave the Chanute men the advantage over the Cogdalmen.

Carbondale moved into first place in the IIAC conference with DeKalb by downing the Cogdalmen in an 85 to 32 tilt. This time Sheffer made 13 field shots and 10 free shots. Vance Hamann led Coach Cogdal's boys by scoring 12 markers. Coach Cogdal used 14 players, and Southern used 15.

Normal Rejoices

One of the best games the ISNU men played was the second game against the confident Titans when the Red and White dished out a 51 to 50 defeat to the Green and White. The score stood at 46 to 46 at the end of the playing time, but a five-minute overtime gave Normal its chance to win.

Normal ended its 1945-46 basketball season with two victories, one over DeKalb and one over Charleston, and three defeats from Chanute Field, Macomb, and Indiana State Teachers College. Although ISNU failed to win the conference championship and lost many games, fans remembered that the fellows were working together for the first time. Normal fans are looking forward to next year when many of this year's squad will be back.

Three managers assisted Coach Cogdal in keeping the Birdies in good shape. They were Bob Woodward, head manager, with Don McKinley and Russ Broughton as assistant managers.

In Spring-These Boys

Normal's spring sports roster showed a full schedule of competition in baseball, track, and field, tennis, and golf. Coach Howard J. Hancock handled the baseball team, Coach Joseph T. Cogdal the track and field men and Coach Eugene Hill the golf and tennis teams.

ISNU seemed destined to win second places in track and field competition by placing second in the triangular meet at DeKalb on May 4 with 54 points. Wheaton won this meet with a total of 71 points, while DeKalb came out third with 29 points. Normal won first place in broad jump, javelin throw, shot put, discus throw, 220-yard dash, and 100-yard dash, and tied for first with DeKalb in pole vault.

On Saturday, May 18, the conference track and field meet was held at McCormick field. Again ISNU took second with about 46 points. Normal won the 220-yard dash, the 100-yard dash, and tied for high jumping honors.

Don Pinder was captain-elect of this year's baseball squad. Harlis Clough and Russ Benway returned from last year's nine, and Bill Campbell and Ralph Paulson returned to baseball from the service. In the first game of the season for both teams, the University of Wisconsin gave Normal an 8 to 3 defeat. Normal's inexperienced Redbirds suffered several defeats at the hands of other schools later in the season.

The golf season looked dark for a while, but letterman Elmo Gentes and veteran Harlan Feicht strengthened the golf team's hopes for a good season. Men out for golf were Don Boden, Ronald Frymire, Edgar Alsene, Jack Lawler, Pat McCray, and George Reed. The Redbird golfers defeated Millikin 7 to 5 and bowed down to DeKalb twice $9\frac{1}{2}$ to $2\frac{1}{2}$ and $6\frac{1}{2}$ to $5\frac{1}{2}$.

In the tournament against Millikin Al Mini and Harlan Feicht made a score of 71, three under par. Against DeKalb Gene Smith, Mini, and Feicht led the Normal golfmen.

Don't Need Vitamin Pills

Men's physical education department had a full schedule of intramural activities this year consisting of bowling, swimming, golf, basketball, wrestling, free shot competition, tennis and volleyball.

Men's intramural basketball season opened on December 5 for the winter tournament. Some of the teams were Tom Kienle's Comets, Lyle Hasting's Dubbers, Lauren Frederick's Little Giants, and Ron Sharkey's Boozers.

Intramural basketball for the second semester began on February 11, when two leagues were formed. Each league played a five-team round robin tournament. Poling's Aces and Wrights won league one, and Kienle and the Boozers won league two. In the championship playoff Poling's Aces won the grand championship with a score of 37 to the Wrights' 25. Kienle's team took consolation honors with a win of 41 to 40 over the Boozers.

In March an intramural volleyball tournament was begun. At that same time Corliss Norton won the annual free throw tournament by scoring 60 out of a 100 shots. Varsity wrestling helped fill out a full sports calendar.

An intramural track meet in April saw the freshmen win with a total of 58 points. Sophomores took second place with 32 points, the juniors third with 15 points, and the seniors failed to earn any points. Around the winners of this track meet Coach Joseph T. Cogdal built his varsity track squad.

Golf tournament in the intramural program at ISNU was held at the Highland Park Golf Course on April 13. This tournament was to determine the intramural golf champion and also was a basis for selecting the varsity golf team.

Harlan Feicht was low qualifier with a 79; but since he was a returning letterman, he was ineligible for the intramural championship. Edgar Alsene won the intramural tournament with 81, followed by Dick Murphy with 88. Eugene Smith and Bill Campbell tied for third with 90, and Don Boden placed fourth with 91. Others participating were Howard Eyer, 97; Bill Raab, 98; Don Frymire, 99; Jack Lawler, 101.

Great Outdoors in Autumn

Hockey dominates the women's sports scene in the fall. A hockey sports day at Normal included MacMurray College of Jacksonville, the University of Illinois, and Northern Teachers College of DeKalb. The ISNU women were proud of defeating the University of Illinois.

Snow Drives Them Indoors

Winter sees the women playing hard at volleyball, basketball, and badminton. Dr. Esther French, head of the women's physical education department, coaches all these sports. Two basketball teams exhibited their skill in a game sponsored by the Golden Eagles.

In the Spring . . .

Honorary basketball team won over Carbondale and lost to Washington University in a play day at Carbondale. In a play day at Champaign on April 27, the ISNU women placed first against the University of Illinois, Charleston, DeKalb, and Carbondale. Softball, archery, golf, and tennis are also featured in the spring.

The girls improve their strokes by knocking the "kitty" around.

Two field hockey stars check for last minute instructions with Dr. French.

Too Hot for Sports

Summer sports suffer from the heat. Archery, golf, and tennis are the chief sports of the summer. In addition at least one class in women's physical education activities keeps its own sports program going. A co-recreational social dancing class, swimming, and duckpin bowling round out the year's activities.

WITH SOMETHING ON THE SIDE

Once Each Fall the Redbirds Return

A perfect Indian Summer week end sent special delivery by the weather man set the background for a real welcome to students and alumni for ISNU's twenty-fifth annual Homecoming celebration.

With a preview in assembly of the Homecoming festivities, new students were given an idea of what to expect during the gala week end.

The celebrating really started off with the pep session and the bonfire Thursday night. Of course, the bonfire was mysteriously lighted prematurely, but students to the rescue soon remedied the situation.

"My Sister Eileen"

On Friday and Saturday nights the curtain went up at 8:15 on the Homecoming play, "My Sister Eileen," a comedy revolving around the experiences of two young girls who went to Greenwich Village to start out on their own. The experiences in which the innocent Eileen found herself involved and the struggles her sister Ruth had in helping to straighten them out, brought roars of laughter from the auditorium.

The cast for the play was Eileen, Marilyn Meinke Gast; Ruth, Jane Price Tepperman; Mr. Appopolus, Robert Smith; Jensen, Donald McKinlay; Two Drunks, Richard Meyers and Philip Buscemi; Lonigan, Edgar Smallwood; Strawberry Vendor, Elna Feller; The Wreck, W. Ted Johnson; Mr. Fletcher, William Lohmeyer; Helen Wade, Cherry Jackson and Loraine Bailey; Frank Lippencott, Kenneth Camp; Chic Clark, Elmo Gentes; and the Cossack Doorman, Milton Eastman.

Normal's Canteen Friday

Others in the cast included Violet Shelton portrayed by Arlyne Becklinger and Grace Kinsey; Mrs. Wade, Janice Ellingsworth and Iris Shreve; Robert Baker, William Tipler; Walter Sherwood, John Bennett; the Prospective Tenant, Betty Hummell; the Consul, Richard Meyers, the Gypsy Sandwich Woman, Barbara Funk, and the Two Kids, Barbara Bishop and Norma Jean Najim.

The canteen in McCormick Gym after Friday night's performance was the scene of the renewing of many old acquaintances. There were refreshments for all and a program to enjoy.

Here's Da Winnah!

But before the evening was over, everyone had to rush off to see who won first for house decorations. Fell Hall took the honors in Class A with the theme "Homecoming in the Yearbooks," and first place in Class B went to Brown's house at 403 South University with "Brownies Enter the Spirit of Homecoming."

Others winning in Class A organizations were: Nature Study Club, "Survival of the Fittest," second; Social Science Club, "Return of Alumni from all over the World," third; Home Economics Club, "Victory Brew," fourth.

Second place in Class B was won by 205 North University Street with the theme "Framing a Victory for ISNU." Third place was won with "Homecomers from all over the World" at 210 Normal Avenue.

The hint of festivity was in the air as a number of early-risers rushed off to club breakfasts early Saturday morning and then finished the last minutes of conversation with "grads" as they watched the parade leave Fell Gate at nine o'clock led by the American Legion Color Guard.

The parade with the queen and her court, nine winning floats, and six bands passed in review and prizes were awarded to the organizations of the winning floats.

Here Comes the Parade!

The Business Education Club displayed the winning float with their theme of DDT, "Defeat DeKalb Today—That's Our Business." The Lowell Mason Club was awarded second prize for their float, "Victory on Iwo Jima."

Third place went to the Golden Eagle, ISNU veterans' group, for "The Red Birds Make History."

Following the parade a dedication service was held with Floyd T. Goodier, director of integration, giving the address for ISNU men in the armed forces.

Redbirds Down Huskies

Crowds of people swarmed about McCormick field as the time for the game approached, a game that highlighted the success of this Homecoming.

The Redbirds gave their best when, in the second half of the game, they were able to overcome DeKalb's lead and emerge with a final victory of 19-7 over the Huskies.

And ISNU was very proud of the performance of the all-girl marching band under the direction of Prof. Wayne Sherrard. Their dramatization of Little Red Riding Hood and the formations between the halves of the game were interpreted by Dr. F. L. D. Holmes.

Queen "Stippie" Crowned

It was truly the end of a perfect day when home-comers packed into McCormick Gymnasium to dance to the soft strains of music furnished by Eddie Stone and his orchestra.

The event of the evening came with the entrance of Queen Margaret Anne Stipp followed by her court with Mary Alice Callery, Joyce Skinner, Norma Stearns, and Marville Zilly. Tom Kienle, President of N Club, did the honors of crowning the queen.

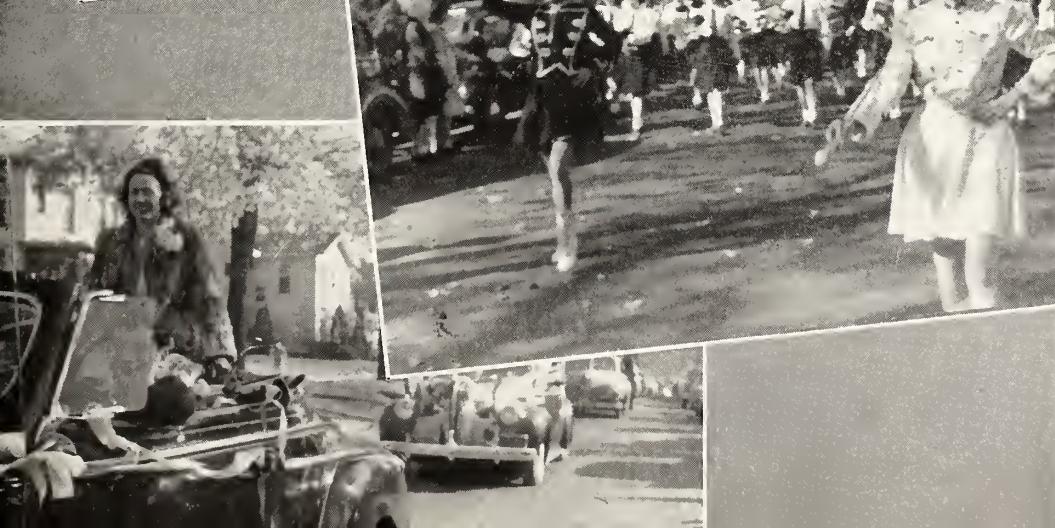

The decorations in the gym helped to carry out the twenty-fifth anniversary as well as the victory theme.

Sunday afternoon and evening saw hosts of students crowded into bus and train stations to shout tired goodbyes to returning "grads." And each "grad" was filled with the warmth of the Homecoming spirit in appreciation of all those who had returned, but not forgetful of those who will never be back.

"One For All and All For One!"

If one could turn back the clock, many strange characters might be seen lurking among the shadows backstage in Capen auditorium, for there the University plays are produced.

The Homecoming play this year was "My Sister Eileen," a rollicking comedy. It was written by Joseph Fields and Jerome Chodorov and is based on a story by Ruth McKenney, who wrote it for the New Yorker magazine. It was a comedy hit of 1941, and has also been made into a movie. "My Sister Eileen" was just right for the Homecoming play.

Greenwich Village Setting

The story revolves around the experiences of two young girls who went to Greenwich Village to start out on their own. Eileen's independent sister Ruth, is determined that they shall "stick it out" in New York in spite of the difficulties they have in trying to find jobs.

Eileen, in her innocent way, soon becomes involved with four or five men too many while Ruth looks on. Eileen's fears really reach the peak when the six Brazilian navy officers, none of whom speak English, follow Ruth home and the girls are unable to get them out of the house.

The play reaches a climax when the girls decide not to go back to Columbus, Ohio, with their father who has come to take them home.

The skillfully played scenes that take place outside the window just above the basement apartment add humor and interest to the setting.

Partly Double Cast

Arlynne Becklinger and Grace Kinsey were cast as Violet Shelton, and Janice Ellingsworth and Iris Shreve as Mrs. Wade.

William Tipler characterized the part of Robert

Baker, John Bennett that of Walter Sherwood, and Betty Hummell the Prospective Tenant.

The Consul was portrayed by Richard Meyers, the Gypsy Sandwich Woman by Barbara Funk, and the Two Kids by Barbara Bishop and Norma Jean Najim.

Kenneth Miller, Shelby Thompson, William Lohmeyer, Richard Stoic, Philip Buscemi, and Roderic Abbott as the Brazilian Officers sent the audience into gales of laughter.

Olson and Johnson Technique

"The Skin of Our Teeth" by Thornton Wilder was presented as the Commencement play on May 17. This play is a kind of cosmic variety show. It is developed with something of an Olson and Johnson technique. The underlying theme of "The Skin of Our Teeth" is that of man's struggle and survival, climbing, falling, destroying himself, being destroyed, surviving by the skin of his teeth but passionately and stubbornly and touchingly alive.

We Hereby Resolve:

Accompanied by their coach, Dr. F. L. D. Holmes, the debate teams of ISNU traveled miles and miles during the past year to participate in tournaments at the Universities of Iowa and Nebraska, and at colleges in Indiana, Wisconsin, and Illinois.

Debaters Marjorie Johnson and Allegra Gulon, who represented the affirmative, and Loraine Bailey and Rosemary Browne of the negative all received ratings of "excellent" at the University of Nebraska.

At the 11th annual Illinois Intercollegiate Debate League Tournament held at Illinois Wesleyan Gulon and Johnson won third place, and Ray Hanson and Wendell Wright placed second in the men's division. Johnson and Hanson were ranked as "superior."

Ann Allen, Iris Shreve, Ray Hanson, and Wendell Wright returned from Indiana State Teachers College with enviable records earned in the debate contest.

In the discussion contest at the University of Nebraska Johnson got an "excellent" rating. At the University of Iowa Hanson and Johnson shared "excellent" ratings in the discussion on peace aims.

In March the traditional clash between the Philadelphia and Wrightonia literary societies resulted in another win by the Phils for the 45th time in 85 years. Winning debaters were Phils Clemence Vantrepotte and Ann Allen. Other victorious Phils were Eula Mae Bess, vocal soloist, and William Hirman, orator.

With her interpretation of Alfred Kreyborg's "Pebble, Song, or Waterfall" Eleanor Larson received the 43rd Edwards Medal for poetry reading to be given at ISNU. She also read Shelley's sonnet, "Ozymandius," which was required of all contestants.

Ray Hanson won the medal in the public speaking group for his original oration, "The Big Two." Miss Ruth Yates supervised the contest and Dr. Fred S. Sorrenson the oratory division. Medals are given by the Edwards family in memory of the second president of ISNU, Richard Edwards.

Music For Millions

Music, drama, and current affairs comprised the general scheme of concerts, lectures and entertainments at ISNU for the year 1945-46.

An aria from "The Marriage of Figaro" was one of the selections sung by Thomas L. Thomas, baritone, at the first of the series this year. Mr. Thomas, internationally known star of radio and concert fame, included in his program a group of traditional songs of his native country of Wales.

Benno Rabinof, violinist, and Sylvia Smith, pianist, made their second appearance on the stage in Capen. Mr. Rabinof has had solo engagements with many leading orchestras and is at present heard weekly over the "Music for an Hour" radio program. Miss Smith, besides being a musician, is a lecture-recitalist, conductor, and composer.

Postwar Changes Predicted

"Unconditional surrender is not an end in itself, but merely opens the door to greater opportunity," said Carlton Smith, economist and public relations counsel, at the third of the lecture series.

Mr. Smith is well acquainted with the unbelievable changes that are possible in what we have known as food, clothing, heat, shelter, transportation, communication, and recreation. He astounded his audience with thoughts of waterproof, windproof and moth-proof fabrics and it was hard for one to conceive of

The Salzedo Harp Ensemble under the direction of Carlos Salzedo, presented to an enthusiastic and appreciative audience the fourth of the lecture courses. The ensemble included a harpist, a flutist, a cellist, and Mr. Salzedo as harpist and pianist. "Golliwog's Cake-walk" and "Serenade for the Doll" added sparkle and humor to the program.

Music Completes Series

Three featured soloists were the highlights of the concert given by the Bloomington-Normal Symphony orchestra under the direction of Dr. Bethuel Gross. Dr. Gross is a member of the faculty at Illinois Wesleyan and is also associate editor of "Musical Leader." The Second Movement from Haydn's Symphony No. 7, and March from Tannhäuser ended the evening's entertainment.

A duo-piano team composed of Raymond Burrows, of the faculty of Teachers College, Columbia University, and Anthony Loudis, head of the music department at the University of Delaware, closed the season's series of concerts before a record breaking audience. The program was divided into four groups varying from the classicism of Bach's "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring," to the rhumba rhythm of Hilhaud's "Scaramouche."

Every Wednesday

Busiest day of the week at Capen is Wednesday when, at 9:50 a.m., masses of students troop over the west bridge to the auditorium for the weekly assembly program. Here is one hour in the week in which the student may feel himself a part of the entire student-body, listening in appreciation, applauding in enthusiastic unison.

Traditional "first" in the fall is the welcome to all students from President R. W. Fairchild. On October 3 the women invaded Capen and the men retired to the library for individual assemblies.

Musical programs are always tops with audiences and the "Singing Band" of Normal Community High presented a very fine one on February 20. Students thrilled to the "Overture to Tannhauser" and the singing of the "Pilgrim's Chorus." Director Thomas S. Richardson concluded the hour with the well-liked Gould composition, "Pavanne."

Still more good music was furnished on another occasion by the U High vocal groups under the direction of Dr. H. W. Peithman. The A Capella Choir sang several selections of Palestrina's church music.

Dr. Melville J. Herskovits, professor of anthropology at Northwestern University, presented the problem of race from the scientific viewpoint, comparing the latter to the popular concept of thinking of human differences in racist terms. Dr. Herskovits said that the scientist prefers to classify mankind into three groups—Caucasoid, Negroid, and Mongoloid.

Teaching as a profession (and a very noble one it is) was depicted by President Fairchild as being one in which the greatest rewards for service could not be evaluated. He introduced eleven emeritus faculty members of ISNU to the student body, all of whom could sincerely say "and gladly teach" is our motto.

Annually billed by the Assembly Board are the Vera Pearl Kemp ensemble, members of the alumni, Honor's Day, Citizenship Day, the glee clubs, and the Faculty Take-off by the seniors.

Big mystery of the year was the program for February 13. Conquered by curiosity many a student attended, who might otherwise have skipped. The title of the topic failed to shed any light on the mystery, despite the fact that it read as follows: "By the Light of the Moon." By 11 o'clock a.m. of the aforesaid day the solution was clear as daylight for it concerned Lincoln's first law case—the crime having been committed by the light of the moon. Attorney Wayne Townley of Bloomington was the main speaker.

"The Student as a Social Being" was the pertinent topic chosen by Miss Mabel L. Culkin, who spoke to the assembly in the spring. She is a sister of Mrs. Margaret Culkin Banning, author, and has taught at a number of teachers colleges and universities. Some of the unusual customs and manners of other countries were included in her talk.

One of the most hilarious assemblies of the year occurred on April 3 when the Blackfriars offered to the students of ISNU a short preview of "Junction 15 or It's the Pigeon Who Pays," which was presented to the public in Capen on April 12. Eddie Anderson's band provided a musical backdrop for much riotous doin's.

U High's Glee Club, under the direction of Dr. H. W. Peithman, sang in Capen one Wednesday last winter.

Final Captain's Inspection—At ease, men!

A Week in a Day

Wearing summer cottons and sporting their first sunburns of the season the students of intersession prepared to tackle their books for three weeks of intensive study. With only two week-ends all frivolous plans were abandoned in favor of an earnest perusal of texts and notes, because the goal of the brief session was the packing of one week's work in one course into a single day.

Young and old flocked to the campus on June 9 to enroll in any one of the 39 courses offered. These included everything from aerocrafts and cabinet-making to nutrition and verse for children. About half of the courses were not available during the regular summer session. Workshops and field trips added still more variety to the schedule. Many coaches registered in the athletic coaching clinic in order to learn more about the techniques of football and basketball.

An atmosphere foreign to students of regular session pervaded the classrooms, where small groups of persons met daily to discuss the topics of a single course for two hours in the morning and one in the afternoon. "Spare" time was spent in reading and note-taking at the library—many of the students virtually camping there during intersession. Indeed, there was little chance for relaxation!

Noticeably lacking were the week-end movies and "nicky" dances. Only diversions were a twilight lecture on crime and delinquency by Dr. John A. Kinneinan and a program by the dramatic reader, Hope Summers, who read excerpts from several modern war dramas.

During this session the campus once more became civilian. On June 16 ISNU bade farewell to the Navy V-12 unit, which had been stationed here for two years. Lt. Meldrim F. Burrill, the commanding officer, presented President Raymond W. Fairchild with the citation of appreciation to the university from the Secretary of the Navy, the battalion flag, and pictures of six Navy graduation classes from the school.

Want to earn three credit hours in a hurry?—Attend intersession. The longer class periods and the concentration upon one field of study five days a week seem not only to stimulate interest and activity, but also, believe it or not, help the student to accomplish more in this short session than he would in a regular one!

Absorbing Sunshine and Knowledge

With the magical transformation of painful sunburns into golden tans comes a certain date on the calendar heralding the opening of another session of summer school. On July 2 students enrolled for a summer of study, of new friendships, and of additional credits earned.

Although entertainment seemed to ebb during intersession it surged forth in the following eight weeks. On the crest of the wave of events appeared the second annual summer show. More than 3500 pleasure-bound citizens and students filled the bleachers and grass on the south campus. F.L.D. Holmes M.C.'d such features as the Fumbling Faculty Four, the tumbling acts of the Victory Hall boys, and a repeat performance of "Dear Mom" by the WRA.

Other events of a more formal nature were presented by the Entertainment Board, which brought Donald Dickson, singing delightful French songs and Leona Flood playing her "Strad."

A group of twilight lectures by faculty members included such topics as the reading of detective stories, the role of the United States in the United Nations charter, light verse, recent public health trends, and the physical training of the body.

Informal fun reigned on the campus during the men's annual picnic, which featured games, music by the German band, and fish! The women, too, had their day when they honored Dr. Helen K. Macintosh, the speaker for the educational conference, with a reception on July 16. A forkless watermelon party was the source of much hilarity in Sherwood Forest one August evening.

Summer session marked the opening in the Fell Hall dining room of the first cafeteria at ISNU, which was seriously needed to fulfill the critical eating situation of students in Normal.

Professional high-water marks of the summer schedule were the clinics and the annual educational conference and exhibit held during the week beginning July 17. Three phases of public school work were discussed in the forums, and they were the modern elementary school, the problem of secondary education, and the program of health and physical education in the school. The exhibit demonstrated the tools necessary for every "good" teacher to own and handle in his or her classroom.

Commencement exercises on August 24 closed the doors of the school for a fortnight.

Never Too Old To Learn

Once again ISNU offered to townspeople the opportunity of getting a renewed taste of classroom and professor in the Adult Education program. This year the offerings, many of them by request of a large group, ranged in subject matter from the hobby of doll collecting to a consideration of the atomic bomb.

The courses were planned with the special emphasis on variety by the use of lecture-demonstration, discussion, and practical training. Professors Nell Waldron, Richard G. Browne, F. Russell Glasener, and Charles Harper presented a series of lectures on some of the great problems facing the American people and the world.

A course in "Art-crafts" was taught by Miss Alice Ogle and a non-technical "Music Appreciation" course was given by Miss Blaine Boicourt. Another popular subject was "Hobbies," for those interested in stamp collecting, flower gardens, and furniture refinishing.

For the business-minded, "Our Business World" taught by Dr. H. F. Koepke and "Beginning Typewriting" by Miss Mary Webb were suitable; for parents and the general public, the psychology department offered the class in "Child Growth and Development" with Miss Wezette Hayden, Miss Josephine Shea, Miss Elizabeth Russell, and Dr. A. E. Lichty as instructors.

A most timely subject was incorporated into a series on "Atomic Energy," presented by Prof. Clarence Cross. For the arm-chair critic of national legislation and world politics, "The Citizen and His Government" presented by Prof. Clarence Orr was offered. For happy little bookworms there was the course "Reviews of Recent Books" by the Department of English.

Prof. Chas. A. Harper is chairman of the Adult Education Committee, and other members are Miss Alice Ebel (vice-chairman), Dr. J. W. Carrington, Dr. Henrietta Fleck, Miss Thelma Force, Miss Wezette Hayden, Miss Clara Kepner, Dr. J. A. Kinneman, Miss Neva McDavitt, Mr. H. O. Reed, Dr. J. L. Reusser, Miss Elizabeth Russell, Miss Alice Sheveland, Miss Eunice Speer, and Miss Thalia Tarrant.

Righting the Wrong

Veterans

About 400 men and women veterans have been greeted at the door of the Veterans' Rehabilitation Center, by Mrs. Sarah Wunderle, secretary.

The Center is functioning for the purpose of helping the veteran to get into an occupation which he can successfully pursue. It is mainly for disabled veterans, although others are helped too.

Mr. William H. Mulvey is employed by the Veterans' Administration as the assistant vocational rehabilitation and education officer. A veteran, with his file, is referred to Mr. Mulvey, who helps the veteran decide definitely what he will do, and plan his education according to his aptitude and possible disability. There are many choices open to the veteran, four of the most popular being radio, refrigeration, business administration, and auto mechanics. He then has the choice of college, business school, trade school, or apprenticeship.

department, is employed by the university to do testing and counselling. ISNU faculty members who have helped Mr. Lovelass are Dr. Claude M. Dillinger, Dr. Stanley S. Marzolf, Dr. Arthur H. Larsen, Dr. Rose Parker, Mr. Edwin G. Struck.

The Psychological Counselling Center is under the direction of Dr. Stanley S. Marzolf, who is aided by Dr. Rose Parker, both certified psychologists, to help in the program of special educational psychology. This counselling and testing service is required of all children for whom the state gives reimbursement. The center also serves Metcalf, University High School, and university students.

Speech Clinic

The Speech Clinic functions under the Division of Speech, and has as its director Dr. F. L. D. Holmes, and Miss Dorothy Eckelmann as assistant director. Miss Eckelmann works closely with the State Division of Services for Crippled Children, which has served about 80 children in the ISNU clinic, giving them hearing tests and speech tests.

Honors Day

Any question put to the Quiz Kids can be answered readily by these who represent the upper three percent of the university student body. For freshmen this rank was attained during the first semester. Upperclassmen have maintained such a position for two semesters.

Twenty-eight students were honored at the Fifth Annual Honors Day convocation which was held Wednesday, May 15. Here to address the members of this group and to commend them for their achievement was Dr. Charles W. Gilkey, Dean of Rockefeller Memorial Chapel at the University of Chicago.

Miss Ferne M. Melrose was assisted in the arrangements for Honors Day by R. H. Linkins, Jennie A. Whitten, Charles E. Decker, and H. O. Lathrop.

Erma Imboden Memorial Award

This award is made each year from the Erma Imboden Memorial Fund to a student teacher in the Metcalf School. The formation of this fund was sponsored by the Metcalf Parent Teacher Association.

Esther Morris, elementary major from Tiskilwa, was given the award at the Annual Honors Day Convocation for this year.

The cash award of $25 was presented by Mrs. Howard Troyer, president of the Thomas Metcalf Parent Teacher Association. This is the first year the award has been made and each year a student teacher in the Metcalf School will be given the fund.

The Memorial Award is made possible through donations by the many friends of Miss Erma Imboden.

Kappa Delta Pi Sophomore Medal

Two years are completed; two more are ahead. At this mid-point of his college career, the sophomore enrolled at ISNU with the highest scholastic average of his class is awarded the Kappa Delta Pi Sophomore Medal. Kappa Delta Pi is the professional education fraternity and the award is presented by the chapter at ISNU.

Edna May Seaton, a Business Education major from Glen Carbon was awarded the medal for 1946 at the annual Honors Day Convocation.

Honorable mention was granted to the five sophomores ranking next highest in scholastic standing: Connie Thomassen, major in English from Bloomington; Iris McKinney, English major from Normal; Rita Ann Kraus, mathematics major from Springfield; Charlotte Broderick, major in English from Tovey; and Ethelmae Hauptman, music major from Collinsville.

Jessie E. Rambo Award

The Jessie E. Rambo award of $65 is made to a junior in the Division of Home Economics Education each year at the Honors Day Convocation.

This award covers practically all school fees for one year and is made on the basis of scholarship, personality, evidences of leadership, participation in campus activities, and possibilities of success in the teaching of home economics.

Gloria Appenbrink, a junior from Blue Mound was given the award for 1946. Gloria has fulfilled the qualifications for the award and has been active in Women's League activities. She has served on Central and House Presidents' Boards and is co-chairman of Honor Council for the coming year.

The award is made possible by the interest and generosity of Miss Jessie E. Rambo, former Director of the Division of Home Economics Education at Illinois State Normal University.

Alumni Scholarship

The alumni cash award is given to a junior selected by a committee of students, faculty members, and one alumnus. Any junior who has attended Normal for his entire college career, holds no other scholarship, shows outstanding achievement—both scholastically and socially—has earned at least part of his necessary college expenses and definitely plans to teach is eligible for application.

The award totals $65 to be used by the student to pay school fees during his senior year.

Virginia Mae Olson, junior from Bloomington, was awarded the scholarship for 1946. Virginia is a major in Health and Physical Education, is a member of Kappa Delta Epsilon, professional education sorority, Women's Physical Education Club, and has been a member of Student Council for three years. She was recently elected president of that organization for the coming year.

U. of I. Scholarship

Each year some senior, who, for four years, has shown a high standard of work and capability while at Normal is given the opportunity to spend one year at the University of Illinois and work toward a master's degree in his chosen field.

Marilyn Theis, English major from Minier, was awarded the scholarship for the 1946-47 school year. Miss Theis was recognized on Honors Day each of her four years at Normal. She holds a number of offices in campus organizations—Fell Hall Honor Resident, president of Kappa Delta Epsilon, vice-president of Women's League, member of Kappa Delta Pi, Sigma Tau Delta, and Theta Alpha Phi.

Miss Theis was recommended by the faculty as ISNU's nomination for the award and was chosen from nominees from several Illinois colleges.

The award represents one year's tuition plus a $400 stipend.

The End of the Beginning

The bell in the tower of Old Main struck three and the band sounded the opening strains of Gounod's Marche et Cortege. Far off down the campus, the procession of black-robed graduates and faculty members began its march to Sherwood Forest. The way was not far, but memories of four years were crowded into those few minutes as the ever-watched-for moment drew near.

With that first backward glance, as the procession moved forward, came memories of those freshman days when they first gazed at Old Main in all its glory, stared in awe at Old Castle and thought how like a picture in a story book it looked; how they marveled at the beauty of Milner Library and the store of books held within her walls; how they thought it impossible to get from McCormick Gymnasium to a class in North Hall in ten minutes. There are other memories of freshman days—the first time they had slept through that eight o'clock class, that indescribable feeling when they faced their first semester exams; the beauty of the campus in early morn and at dusk that first spring they were here.

Another glance at Old Main recalled the memories of other years. There were memories of teachers, those to whom they could take problems, teachers who were an inspiration to the fulfillment of those words on the seal ". . . and gladly teche."

The procession had now passed Milner and, as they reached the amphitheater of Sherwood Forest, the ushers, clad in red and white robes, directed the faculty members and candidates for graduation to their places.

The colors advanced, the Star Spangled Banner was played, the invocation was given and the University Concert Band played Meyerbeer's Dedication and Benediction. All else was quiet; the flag in the circle before Old Main rippled in the faint breeze, the rays of the sun formed a single beam that lighted the pulpit.

Dr. William Scott Gray, professor of education at the University of Chicago, was speaking now; the subject—"The Challenge of the Future." His words were timely and further aroused within all the will to accept and conquer that challenge.

The address was over, the time had come. A word of congratulations and a handshake from the President, and there it was—that long-coveted sheep skin.

The University Hymn was sung, the recessional was begun. Down the path from Sherwood to Old Main marched the procession. The end had come, but yet it was only the beginning of a new world, leaving behind an old world never to be forgotten.

IN MEMORIAM

Dr. Constantine F. Malmberg
Died October 30, 1945

For seventeen years Dr. Malmberg inspired students of ISNU to attain a high degree of scholarship and of personal and social development. Quiet and unassuming, he imparted courage to all by his kindly smile. The example of his life of steadfast service in the field of education will continue to serve as a challenge to those who enter the teaching profession.
